SENATOR HOKE SMITH FORMALLY ANNOUNCES TO SUCCEED HIMSELF

SENATOR HOKE SMITH.

Statement Breathes Harmony and Good Will for All Georgians, Regardless of Past Affiliations

BY RALPH SMITH.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—In a statement breathing a spirit of harmony and good will for all Georgians, notwithstanding past affiliations and alignments, Senator Hoke Smith today declared he would be a candidate to succeed himself in the United States senate, subject to the Democratic primary in August. The statement follows:

"It has hardly seemed necessary for me to make any formal statement of my candidacy for the nomination in August to succeed myself in the senate. Friends who have supported me in past contests, and many who have opposed me, have written most cordially expressing their purpose to support me for reelection, and have seemed to regard my candidacy as a certainty.

"The newspapers have generously given to the people the facts as to what I have been doing in Washington, and the voters are already, to a large extent, familiar with my efforts to serve the state.

WOULD SERVE ALL.

"So long as I am in the senate it will be my earnest desire to serve all the people and to represent them all to the extent of my ability.

"While I cannot hope that all the voters will agree with me, I will not, by anything I may do or say, make it even difficult for any citizen to confer with me, or take up with me matters in Washington in which he may be interested.

"I have long realized with regret that former political contests resulted as they were obliged to do, in some acute differences and even estrangements, but I am encouraged by what has been said to me by hundreds of those who have opposed me in the past, to believe that bitterness and harshness has been forgotten by others, as it has been by me.

TRUSTS ELECTION TO FRIENDS.

"The people have been very generous to me, and I am anxious to have every citizen of Georgia, no matter what our past relations have been, feel perfectly free to call on me while I a min the senate whenever I can serve him, and in so with the full assurance that he will find me his friend, and really pleased to respond to his call.

"I will not be able to spend any time in Georgia until after adjournment of congress, which will probably be earlier than the middle or last of July. I shall devote my entire time while congress is in session to the discharge of my official duties, and must trust my election to my friends and those who approve my record in the senate."

Vice President Says He Never Had Any Better Time Anywhere

BY RALPH SMITH.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—Vice President and Mrs. Marshall and Senator Smith reached Washington this morning on the Birmingham special from Atlanta. Mr. Marshall was on hand to call the senate to order at 11 o'clock, He was enthusiastic concerning his visit to Atlanta and the attentions shown him while here.

"I do not think I have ever been more socially treated," he said.

Former Atlanta Man Puts on Best Clothes, Dines, Then Ends Life

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 28.—Herman Hoveland, telegraph operator from Miami, Fla., and who had been working in the Postal office at Atlanta until a few weeks ago, killed himself in a room in the Hillman hotel last night after he had prepared for suicide by dressing up and eating a big dinner in the cafe. No motive is known as he had worked all day and seemed in good spirits.

MRS. THOMAS PAINE DEFEATS OPPONENT AND ENTERS FINALS

Atlanta Woman Will Play Mrs. F. G. Jones for Southern Women's Golf Championship Friday

KNOXVILLE Tenn., May 28.—Mrs. Frank G. Jones, Memphis, and Mrs. Thomas B. Paine, Atlanta, will meet in the championship match of the Women's Southern Golf tournament on the Cherokee links Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

In the semi-finals here today Mrs. Jones won from Miss Louise Kalser, St. Louis, 8 up and 7 to go.

Mrs. Thomas B. Paine, Atlanta, defeated Mrs. K. G. Duffield, Memphis, 2 up.

The match between Mrs. Paine and Mrs. Duffield was one of the most brilliant played during the tournament. A large gallery followed the two players. In the second round, consolation flight, Miss Ann Watkins, Chattanooga, defeated Miss Pauline Lockett, Washington, 5 up and 3 to play.

The match was one of the most spectacular, as well as one of the most interesting, played on the Cherokee links since the tournament began Tuesday.

Mrs. Paine played brilliantly through out the course, but the match was stubbornly contested by Mrs. Duffield.

A large gallery followed both matches and drawing conclusions from the quality of golf played today by both Mrs. Paine and Mrs. Jones it is predicted that the championship match Friday will be just as stubbornly contested as was the match in which Mrs. Paine was victor today.

Mrs. Robert Tilt Jones, of Atlanta, defeated Mrs. Tilt, also of Atlanta, in the second round, consolation flight, 1 up.

Miss Alexa Sterling, of Atlanta, the youngest golfer attending the meet, who has been ill most of her time during her visit in this city, planned to go on the links this afternoon to enter the two-ball mixed foursome handicap cup match, under protest from her friends.

Mrs. O'Brien, of Atlanta, also played in the foursome with W. C. Skaggs, of this city. Mrs. Tom Paine, Mrs. R. H. Jones, Mrs. Brooks, Mrs. Tilt, all took part in the mixed foursome this afternoon

Ouimet Is Now Golf Champion of Two Countries

VERSAILLES, France, May 28.—Francis Ouimet, American open golf champion, became amateur champion of France today by defeating Henry J. Topping, of the Greenwich Country club, Connecticut, by 4 up and 3 to play in the final round of thirty-six holes.

Warm winds and sunny weather greeted Francis Ouimet, American open golf champion, and Henry J. Topping, of Greenwich, Conn., when they turned out today at La Boulie to play the thirty-six-hole match to decide which American player should become successor to the champion of France. All players of other nationalities, as well as twelve other American entrants, were eliminated in the earlier rounds.

At the end of the first nine holes Ouimet led Topping by 1 up.

At the end of the second nine holes Ouimet increased his lead to 4 up.

Topping drove a longer ball when he hit it cleanly, but he made mistakes with some of his wooden club shots through the greens. He did not keep so good a line as Ouimet and generally times was off the course. Both players putted weakly. The cards for the first nine holes:

Ouimet	544	554	544	—41
Topping	545	743	635	—42

Both improved in their putting on the home journey. At the fourteenth hole Ouimet was three up. The next three were halved and Ouimet took the eighteenth hole. The cards for the second nine holes:

Ouimet	454	444	554	—39
Topping	454	554	555	—43

COMMISSION MAY CONTROL IN MEXICO PENDING ELECTION

Plan for Provisional President and Four Ministers to Succeed Huerta Meets General Approval

NAMES OF ELIGIBLES ARE BEING KEPT SECRET

Men Selected Would Share Responsibility for Government Until Successors Are Fairly Chosen by Ballot

(By Associated Press.)

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., May 28.—Mediation conferences have been in progress a week today and already many of the essentials of a plan for the pacification of Mexico have been agreed on.

Details are being withheld until there is a complete agreement on all subjects, but the main points of the plan on which both sides at present look favorably, are the following:

The transfer of the executive power at Mexico City from General Victoriano Huerta to a provisional president and four cabinet ministers. This talked-of body has often been referred to as a commission or junta.

These five men would share the responsibility of putting into operation the program adopted at the conference here for the conduct as soon as practicable of new elections for president, vice president and members of congress. The five would be neutral so far as their political affiliations are concerned, but would be representative men as nearly acceptable as possible to all factions in Mexico, including the constitutionalists, and approved also by the American government. Prompt recognition of the provisional government would be given by the United States.

Withdrawal of American troops is expected by the Mexican delegates to follow as a matter of course as soon as the new government is installed.

In the protocol there will be proclaimed principles on which a study of the agrarian and educational problems in Mexico would be based but there will be made no mention of individuals to comprise the government.

NAMES KEPT SECRET.

The mediators and delegates intend to keep secret the names of individuals until all the elements in the proposed new government have assented to the plan or the actual change in government has been accomplished. There is every reason to believe, however, the Washington government is familiar with them. It is also probable this list also has been sent by the Mexican delegates to General Huerta. It is understood there will be no reference in the protocol to the details of future elections, either as to the eligibility, how found a way to bridge that difficulty by preserving the unity of the executive through the provisional president and four ministers, to all intents and purposes, will act as a unit in resolving the various questions incident to re-establishment of a permanent government.

The executive power, according to the Mexican constitution, is vested in the president who can bestow it upon cabinet officials.

The four men who would act with the new provisional president, therefore, would take charge of the departments of foreign relations, finance, war and interior. Each secretaries would continue in charge of the other departments.

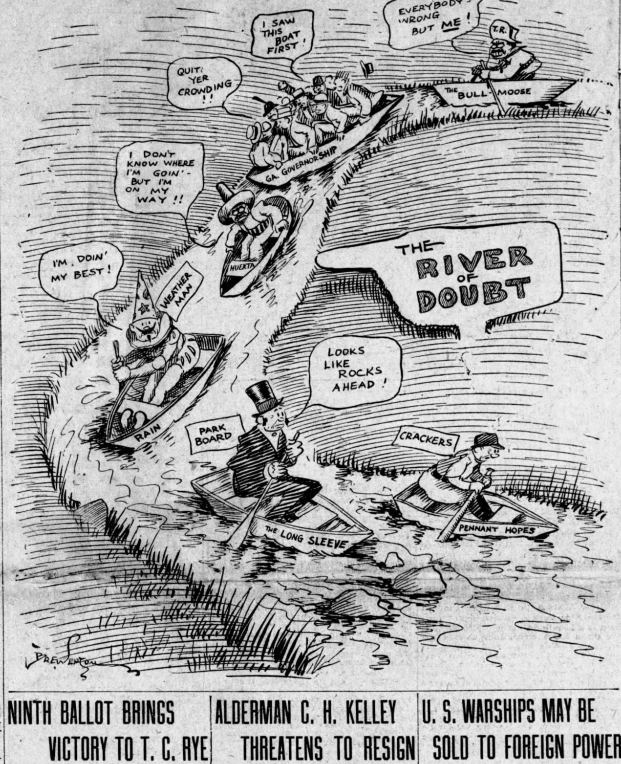
Relief is expressed confidently that an agreement or protocol will be drawn up and perhaps signed within another week. The Mexican delegates hope no time will be lost in setting up the new government. Already they have General Huerta's approval for the main points in the plan.

Interests of the constitutionalists are being kept in mind by the mediators. Names agreed on for the new provisional government are expected to be such as the constitutionalists might indorse. The mediators do not expect the question of constitutionalist representation here to be reopened. The conferees, however, have promised to say that the general belief is that the American government already is sounding out the constitutionalists on details of the plan being discussed. Conferences between the mediators and Mexican delegates were expected to occupy this forenoon.

Closely following the landing of munitions of war for Huerta from the two German liners at Puerto Mexico, a large consignment from Japan is due at Manzanillo or Salina Cruz on the west coast. Word has reached Washington that the Japanese consul at Idzumo, which has been hovering around Mazatlan, has gone down the coast and though the latter report is lacking in official confirmation so far, it is understood that like the German cruiser Bremen, which conveyed the Ypiranga to Puerto Mexico on the east coast the Japanese warship will accompany the expected shipment to one of the ports for transportation by rail to the Mexican capital.

The Japanese arms and ammunition were ordered by Huerta many months ago.

SAILING DOWN THE RIVER OF "DOUBT"



NINTH BALLOT BRINGS VICTORY TO T. C. RYE

Wins Democratic Nomination for Tennessee Governor After Long Fight in Convention

(By Associated Press.)

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 28.—Thomas C. Rye, of Paris, attorney general of the Thirteenth judicial circuit, was nominated as Democratic candidate for governor of Tennessee, to oppose Governor Ben W. Hooper, Republican incumbent. The nomination came on the ninth ballot. The ballot showed 646 for Rye and 616 for Everett, enough counties changing to give Rye the necessary 66%.

TO SUPPORT PROHIBITION.

The platform on which the Democratic candidate for governor of Tennessee to be nominated by the pending convention will make his race declares against the repeal of "any of the temperance laws now in force," and pledges the party to their maintenance and to the enactment of such additional legislation as may be necessary to secure their rigid enforcement. Heretofore the party platforms have favored local option, as against the state-wide prohibition law enacted by the general assembly of 1909.

Of the election law, which had a bone of contention in the two legislatures and has caused three legislative filibusters beyond the borders of the state, the convention expressed the opinion that the law was a good one if properly administered. The party was pledged to its maintenance and fair administration, with both parties fairly represented on the state board.

A legalized primary law, workman's compensation law, a law to prevent legislative abandonment, a thorough revision of the tax system and opposition to the fee system as a mode of paying officials were among the other planks.

WILSON HIGHLY PRAISED BY N. Y. BANK OFFICIAL

J. F. Gardin Says Country Should Be Proud of Tariff and Currency Laws

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 28.—John F. Gardin, vice president of the National City bank of New York, told the National Foreign Trade convention today that President Wilson's administration had given the country two things of which it might be proud—the taff and the currency law.

"The federal reserve law is the one bright spot we have to look forward to at this moment," said he. "It is to relieve us from the bondage in which we have been for fifty years. I consider that release just as great as the emancipation of the slaves. The reserve law favors foreign more than domestic commerce."

ALDERMAN C. H. KELLEY THREATENS TO RESIGN

Resents Finance Committee's Taking Away South Pryor Appropriation

When the finance committee of general council Thursday morning took back the $15,000 appropriation to regrade South Pryor street, Alderman C. H. Kelley, of the Second ward, father of the regrading project, announced he would resign from council.

"If you take back this appropriation I will fight the sheet all the way through council," he said. "If I fail, then I will resign my place in council. Unless I can get something for the Second ward. I had better get out and let the ward put a man here who can."

The committee was obliged to have $15,000 to complete street projects which are started and which cannot be finished without additional money. South Pryor street has not been started. The committee told Alderman Kelley if he could point out some other place to find the money, it would be glad to take this and let his appropriation alone. He could not name a place, for the reason that the city's money is getting mighty scarce. The committee told the alderman it would hate to see him leave council and hated to take his money, but under the circumstances felt obliged to complete the work under way before starting more.

The South Pryor street appropriation was put in the January apportionment sheet. The work has not been started because of waiting on the county to join with $10,000 worth of labor. This delay leaves the appropriation intact.

The finance committee divided the $15,000 as follows: To resurface Whitehall street, where it has been regraded, $1,500; to finish the West Peachtree street regrading, $5,000; to pay the city's part of the cost of Glenn street underpass, $6,970; to pay the police department for two days extra work during the Shrine convention, $1,662.

Thief Picks Chickens And Leaves Feathers In Owner's Hennery

Not content with ten plump, frying-size chickens and seven fat hens in their natural state, a fastidious chicken thief broke into the hen house of C. T. Nunnally, 177 Ponce de Leon avenue, Wednesday night, and killed and picked the chickens btore leavong Mr. Nunnally's backyard with his booty, according to the police.

Not a squawk from the chickens was heard, and nothing was known of the backyard tragedy until early Thursday morning, when a pile of feathers and seventeen chicken heads were discovered by the cook on the ground near the hen house.

U. S. WARSHIPS MAY BE SOLD TO FOREIGN POWER

Plan Laid Before Sec. Daniels for Disposal of Idaho and Mississippi

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 28.—A plan for disposing of the battleships Idaho and Mississippi to a foreign power for just what the United States paid for their construction was laid before the senate naval affairs committee today by Secretary Daniels.

Greece is understood to be negotiating for the Mississippi and the Idaho. The United States has never before sold battleships to a foreign power, although it has outgrown them and afterward sold them without armament.

The ships have been in commission since 1908. The Mississippi cost $5,832,000 and the Idaho $5,894,000. Secretary Daniels asked for an amendment to the naval bill permitting the sale and providing that the money be used in the construction of one dreadnought in addition to the two dreadnoughts already provided in the bill as it passed the house.

Secretary Daniels explained to the committee that while he expected to get about $12,000,000 for the two ships, he would be able to make up the $14,000,000 needed for a new dreadnought by economy in other lines.

Mr. Daniels told the committee that while the Idaho and Mississippi were efficient ships for harbor defense, they were not modern enough to go into line of battle.

While the name of the nation negotiating for the purchase was kept closely guarded, it was said Greece is anxious to put her navy more nearly on a footing with Turkey which recently bought a new dreadnought built for Brazil in an English shipyard.

Mr. Daniels' proposal met with the approval of a majority of the committee and an amendment embodying the plan was prepared for presentation to the senate.

COURSES OF STUDY SHOULD BE REVISED, MISS PARRISH SAYS

Numerous Changes Recommended by State Supervisor in Report to City Board of Education

LOCAL TAX IS FAVORED FOR SCHOOL MAINTENANCE

Broader Social Service Urged. Sets Up New Ideals of Study, Methods, Teacher-Training and Efficiency

Complete reorganization of the courses of study in the grammar and high schools of Atlanta to meet present-day conditions; participation of the school organization in social work and the adaptation of the school plant to use by all the people for innocent pleasure; the creation of a real and practical normal school from the present normal department, and the recognition of its graduates by their employment in the city schools; the reorganization of the weekly normal classes into studies of teaching methods instead of elementary texts as at present; the adoption of a local tax for school purposes, without increase in the tax rate, instead of the haphazard plan of school maintenance now in use; official recognition and encouragement of efficiency among teachers, completely ignored in the present plan of school administration—these are a few, the most important of the very intelligent recommendations submitted to the city school board Thursday afternoon by Mrs. C. S. Parrish, one of the state school supervisors.

Miss Parrish was assigned recently by State Superintendent M. L. Brittain to a survey of the Atlanta schools, at the request of the local board. Her work completed, she has submitted her report under date of May 25, and the recommendations are contained in that report. Critical and expert discussion of the Atlanta schools is the whole of Miss Parrish's report and with it is mixed many constructive suggestions.

LANGUAGE IS HOPEFUL.

Perhaps the feature of the voluminous conclusions she has submitted, more than in that suggesting reorganization of the courses, is the hopeful tone Miss Parrish reveal strikingly an out-of-date conception of the purposes of city school work. In no part does she let pessimism mild, calmly critical, helpful commendatory when possible, throughout the report. Yet from this and several other phases of it, sensational interpretations may be made.

As a preliminary to reorganizing the entire course of study and readjustment of subject-values and reapplication of methods, Miss Parrish suggests it would be well to consult the city's varied interests. For instance, she would have a committee representing those interests sit down and tabulate the needs that have come under their observation and which should be met in the schools. On this committee might be represented, she says, the department stores, the banks, the cotton and factories, the wood and metal shops and factories, public utilities, the social change, prostitution officers, Men and Religion Forward Movement, women's clubs, physicians, the city and high schools, the Atlanta chamber of commerce, the churches, the homes, the city, county and private institutions.

The tabulation thus prepared would be submitted to another committee on course of study, for further use. Miss Parrish would have this latter committee composed of "persons capable of discrimination and utter[ance] untrammeled by predisposition to the old course of study."

"If proof is needed that something is wrong somewhere in the present system," she continues, "we can find it in

MORE BURNS AGENTS ARE FINED AND BOUND OVER

Rogers, Whitfield and Tedder Each Fined $100 and Held for State

Three more Burns agents were heavily fined in the recorder's court Wednesday afternoon and bound over to the state courts charged with operating as private detectives without the proper legal authority.

The men arraigned Wednesday were W. W. (Boots) Rogers, L. C. Whitfield and Carlton C. Tedder, and they were fined $100 and costs each and bound over to the state courts under $200 bonds each. Tuesday afternoon Dan S. Lehon, chief aid of William J. Burns, was fined $100 and costs and bound over under a $500 bond on the same charge.

The cases against two of the six Burns men arrested by the city police were dismissed Wednesday. They were C. E. Sears, local manager, and W. D. McWorth. Sears had a license from the police, and it has been forefited because of his employment of the other men, consequently the alternative penalty of a fine in the recorder's court was not imposed.

McWorth proved to the satisfaction of the court that when he started to work as a private detective he was credited to the Pinkerton agency and properly approved by the police authorities. When he changed from the Pinkertons to the Burns agency his permit to operate here was not revoked. Therefore the case against him was dismissed.

The men convicted made bonds and their cases like Lehon's will be appealed to the higher courts by Judge Arthur Powell, counsel for the Burns agency.

The trials Wednesday afternoon developed two features. Leonard Haas, of counsel for Leo M. Frank, took the witness stand, and testified that he had told Burns, when the detective took the case, that he believed the city detectives had coerced Jim Conley, Nina Formby and various other witnesses in the famous murder case.

Chief of Police J. L. Beavers interrupted the witness by asking "Did Burns make a report to you showing that he found a police frame-up?"

"Yes, he did," quickly answered the attorney.

The question and answer were both ruled out by the court as not relevant to the case on trial.

Chief Beavers later added interest to the trials, when he testified that L. C. Whitfield had asked the permission of the police to operate here, and that he (Beavers) had refused to approve his application because he did not consider Whitfield straight. Whitfield was formerly a Pinkerton man, and he was one of the finders of the famous "bloody stick" in the pencil factory. This was a find which the city police branded as a plant.

Except for the trial of Lehon in the superior court on charges of subornation of perjury, which may not come up for a year or more, the prosecution of the Burns agents here are believed to have ended with the proceedings in the recorder's court.

While Lehon is under a bond to appear before the grand jury as a witness it is likely that he will be excused by the solicitor. He will then be at liberty to leave the city and not appear again until his trial for subornation of perjury is called or until the higher courts dispose of the case tried in the recorder's court.

FORTY GRADUATES FROM ATLANTA UNIVERSITY

Ten college students and thirty normal school students were graduated from Atlanta university, colored, at the commencement exercises held at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning in Ware Memorial chapel. ATLANTA GIRL HEADS NEXT FORSYTH BILL

MISS CLAIRE ROCHESTER.

Claire Rochester Possesses a Double Voice, Soprano and Baritone—New York Critics Give Her High Praise

Much interest is centered in the appearance next week at the Forsyth theater of Claire Rochester, the Atlanta girl who is said by those who know to be the only girl baritone and soprano in the world.

Miss Rochester made her vaudeville debut at Proctor's Fifth Avenue theater in New York City on March 9, as the headliner of one of the best bills of the season and the verdict of the critics was that she was the hit of the bill.

Victor Watson in reviewing the bill for the New York American, said "Each turn is a headliner. Miss Claire Rochester made her metropolitan bow in the variety stage in this house yesterday afternoon and was given a reception that was little short of an ovation. Miss Rochester will be remembered for her splendid work in Lew Field's musical production 'All Aboard.' She is a dainty creature graced with beauty and voice and uses both to the best possible advantage."

The Billboard, the leading vaudeville weekly, had this to say: "Claire Rochester a Lew Field's protege recently featured in 'All Aboard,' made her first vaudeville appearance as a double-voiced headliner, and scored the hit of the bill. She possesses a combination soprano-baritone voice, the finest the writer has ever heard. Add to these gifts a beautiful face an da magnetic personality and you have the recipe for an act which it will be very hard to beat."

Miss Rochester is bringing much credit home to Georgia in acnieving one of the most phenomenal successes ever made in vaudeville, and her friends in Atlanta are sure to turn out in large numbers to extend their congratulations and to welcome home this 20-year-old headliner.

Audiences which grow in number at every performance are laughing at the rollicking humor of "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary" at the Lyric this week, and Miss Lucille LaVerne is proving her ability as a character actress in the quaint role of the old maid from the country.

On Thursday night there will be a benefit performance arranged by the Pan-Hellenic society for a working girls' home, and on Friday night the Drama league will be guests of Miss LaVerne. The house, however, is open to the general public on those nights as usual.

There is not a more delightful place in Atlanta than the Forsyth. Since warm weather made its appearance the cooling plant has been put in operation and temperature has been reduced to comfort. The ice plant has been thoroughly tested and works in keeping with its record of last season and the silent calling fans keep a sea breeze effect.

Laky's great treat "The Red Heads" a company of sixteen people, most of whom are pretty girls eclipse the record of any headline attraction of the season.

Next week Little Emma Bunting will make her vaudeville debut. She will present a sketch founded on "The Princess of Patches" and will be supported by six players. Another feature will be R. A. Rolfe's offering "The Purple Lady," with Ralph Lynn and a company of eleven. Kinney and Clarke, the dancers, and other stars on the program will make a standard Forsyth entertainment.

Billboards are announcing the reopening of the Bijou theater Monday, June 8, for the summer season, and the welcome announcement is made that the Jewell Kelley company, with all the old favorites, has been booked. The company includes such popular players as Vernon Wallace, Lee Harvey, T. C. McDonough, Earl Higley, Rose Morris, Alice Buckney and others who made many friends during their stay at the Bijou.

The opening play will be Al Wood's stirring melodrama, "Why Girls Leave Home," a play full of sensational incidents, wholesome comedy and charming heart interest.

The second big success from the Vitagraph theater, New York, comes to the Grand today. It is a comedy in three parts called "Love, Luck and Gasoline." The well known John Bunny, Wallie Van and Lillian Walker are the principal funmakers. Equally as good from a dramatic standpoint is "The Royal Box," with Gertrude Coghlan and excellent company. This feature is in four reels and is taken from the famous play by the late Charles Coghlan. "The Confederate Reunion at Jacksonville" will be one of the interesting scenes shown by Pathe's Weekly. New songs by Miss Huston and new music by the Grand's ten-piece orchestra will complete the program.

How Uncle Sam Saves Thousands of Lives

Depends Upon the Hot Springs of Arkansas to Cure His Soldiers, Sailors and Citizens.

Many years ago, when Thomas Jefferson was President, the U. S. Government awakened to the fact that the Hot Springs of Arkansas was the most valuable asset in America for the curing of human ailments. So all of these springs were set aside and became a park reserve under the direct control and supervision of the Government.

It is beyond comprehension the thousands upon thousands of lives that have since been saved through the healing powers of these springs.

The waters are charged with radium—know technically as radio-activity—that they accomplish results in the cure of disease that would under other treatment be considered impossible.

The ailments that most readily yield to these baths are Rheumatism, Gout, Neuralgia, Malaria, Locomotor Ataxia (earlier stages), Bright's Disease (when not too far advanced), Liver and Bladder troubles, Catarrhal troubles, Skin and Blood diseases, troubles peculiar to women and other troubles of a nature kindred to those above mentioned.

Regarding these springs as America's greatest gift to the sick, the Government has never allowed them to be exploited for private gain. The prices charged for the baths are strictly regulated—hotel charges are extremely low, and every consideration is afforded the visitor.

The city of Hot Springs is one of the most delightful resorts to be found anywhere in the world, and its visitors are by no means confined to those seeking health.

The best of hotel accommodations, ideal climate the year around, picturesque mountain scenery with drives made beautiful by U. S. expert engineers, all contribute to make this the ideal resort of America.

Cool in Summer, with almost never a warm night—practically free from flies and mosquitoes—splendid facilities for all outdoor sports, excellent tennis courts, one of the finest 18-hole golf courses in America, baseball parks, etc.—lirely with the gaiety of thousands of visitors from all parts of the country—Hot Springs offers rest, comfort, enjoyment and health. Come and bring your friends and family. Anyhow, write for information, handsomely illustrated souvenir booklet, descriptive reports and other interesting and valuable matter.

College Woman Eager to Raise Funds For Business Women's Boarding House

For the purpose of raising a fund for the renting, equipment and maintenance of a business woman's boarding house, the Atlanta Pan-Hellenic society, composed of college women, will take charge of the Lyric theater Thursday night. The receipts from the sale of tickets will go to the fund.

The theater was bought out for this night from Miss Lucile LaVerne by the Pan-Hellenic society. "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary," an extremely catchy farce, is the play on the bills, and the members of the Pan-Hellenic society feel assured that a record-breaking crowd will attend.

During the intermissions dancing will be enjoyed on the special floor in the ball at the entrance to the theater. The performance will begin at the regular time—8:30 o'clock.

YATESVILLE, Ga., May 28.—Judge Nash Broyles made a very forceful address in the auditorium of J. E. Johnston institute last Monday at 11 o'clock.

SPRING SICKNESS COMES TO EVERYONE

Spring sickness comes in some degree to every man, woman and child in our climate. It is that run-down condition of the system that results from impure impoverished devitalized blood. It is marked by loss of appetite and that tired feeling, and in many cases by some form of eruption.

The best way to treat spring sickness is to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. Ask your druggist for this all-the-year-round medicine. It purifies, enriches and revitalizes the blood.—(Advt.)

BRIDEGROOM ARRESTED ON SWINDLING CHARGE

Man Who Eloped With Girl Held for Passing Bad Check on Bank

Accused of swindling a local bank out of $60 with a worthless check C. W. Dean, Jr., formerly of Dayton, Ohio, was arrested at 140 Spring street Wednesday afternoon by City Detectives Blass and Rosser, accompanied by Assistant Superintendent W. H. Smith, of the Atlanta Pinkerton agency.

Ten days ago Chief of Detectives Lanford was told by an anxious mother that her daughter had eloped with Dean. The bank about the same time notified the Pinkerton agency that Dean had swindled it. So the detectives set to work, with the result that Dean was traced to Marietta, where it was found he had married the girl, and then back to Atlanta to 140 Spring street, where he and his young wife were staying at the time of his arrest Wednesday afternoon.

Studebaker
Economical Light weight SIX
$1575

But for Studebaker SIX volume, you would pay more and get less.

Volume makes manufacturing economy, which, in turn, makes value.
Production of the Studebaker SIX is greater than any other "Six" in the world.
It engages the biggest and best plant in the world—$3,000,000 in machinery alone.
It permits a quality of materials, a closeness of manufacturing, beyond the reach of a smaller production.
It cuts down the manufacturing cost per car to the lowest figure.
That is why the Studebaker SIX is the quality-equal of the $5,000 "Six."
That is why it is outselling every other "Six"—whether near it in price or far above it.
Send for the Studebaker Proof Book, describing Studebaker manufacturing methods.

NEW WITNESSES CALLED IN NAVAL STORES CASE

Trial Halted Pending Arrival of Three Who Will Appear for Government

(By Associated Press.)

SAVANNAH, Ga., May 28.—Trial of the four officials of the suspended American Naval Stores company, charged with violating the Sherman anti-trust laws, was halted here today in the United States district court pending the arrival of three witnesses for the government. District Attorney Akerman said that two of these witnesses were N. V. Graves, Philadelphia, and Charles Lilly, California. He would not disclose the identity of the third witness, but it was intimated that George M. Boardman, New York, probably was the man. Mr. Boardman was a defendant in the former trial, which resulted in a verdict of guilty. This verdict later was set aside by the United States supreme court.

There witnesses were examined and certified copies of articles of incorporation of the American Naval Stores company and the National Transportation and Terminal company offered in evidence before the court recessed today. It was regarded here as probable that the introduction of evidence would end Saturday.

MAD HORSE HURDLES AUTO ON STREETS OF LAGRANGE

Animal Dashes Through Shop Window and Then Tries to Butt Down Telephone Pole

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

LAGRANGE, Ga., May 28.—A horse belonging to Hugh Killingsworth was hitched to a one-horse wagon on the court house square this afternoon, when he became frightened at some unknown "bug-a-boar" and began to run.

The driver was unable to hold the lines and the horse soon freed himself from the hitchings of the wagon and seemed to go mad. He ran through a baseball team on the coping of the square and as his speed increased, he began to hurdle the objects in his way. He jumped over an automobile and ran headlong into a large show window in the store of Bradfield-Hutchinson, breaking both the front and back glass in the window, the total damage amounting to about $125, which was covered by insurance.

He then turned and ran in a frenzied condition towards the stable, where he has been kept, about a block from the square. He seemingly had gone blind and ran into a telephone post just at the stable which knocked him unconscious.

A local veterinarian soon revived him.

Calf Dashes Through Plate Window at Dalton

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

DALTON, Ga., May 28.—People on Hamilton street yesterday morning saw a small calf, driven with other live stock, made a sudden dash for liberty, charging through a plate glass window in a business building. Chase was given, and when the calf was finally rounded up, it was found to be uninjured, but the window was ruined.

BURTON SMITH TO BE HONORED BY SHRINERS

Grand Marshal of Nobles' Parades to Be Guest of Honor at Dinner

Burton Smith, grand marshal of the two great parades of the Shriners here a couple of weeks ago, will "get his" Friday night, when his staff aids and fellow-nobles of Yaarab temple will have him as their guest of honor at a big banquet feast in the Druid Hills Golf club.

More than 100 will attend the dinner, which will begin at 7:30 o'clock. The program of speeches calls for a sort of experience meeting, the aids telling their unique experiences of Shriners' week.

Scores of compliments of the aids as one of the finest bodies of men ever assembled for work at any Shrine meeting have been transmitted to Noble Smith, their organizer and chief. The aids not only stuck close to duty with their assigned visiting committees, but worked in numerous other ways as a sort of provost guard, some of them even doing traffic duty on the downtown streets.

HUSBAND'S NIGHT PARADE WITH RAZOR SCARES WIFE

Sometimes He Varied Program With Hammer, She Says, and Asks Divorce

Declaring her husband had a habit of rising in the dead of night and marching around the bed with a razor or a hammer in his hand, Mrs. Etta R. Pinkard, of 2 Elliott street, has entered suit in superior court against Peter C. Pinkard.

The Pinkards were married in 1897, the suit sets out, and the wife charges her husband continually treated her cruelly. She stood his treatment, she says, until he formed the hammer and razor habit, and then she separated from him in December, 1913.

On May 26 of this year, she says, he came to her home and threatened her life and that of her sister. Then she decided to bring the suit. She asks for the custody of their children, William, aged fourteen; Fred, aged twelve; Zora, eight years old, and Carey, four years old. The suit was filed by Attorney W. A. Sims.

TENNESSEE OFFICIALS STUDY CONVICT PLAN

GOVERNOR BEN W. HOOPER

Governor Hooper and Party of Good Roads Enthusiasts Here to See How Georgia Builds Them

Governor Ben W. Hooper, of Tennessee, and a party of Tennessee citizens are in Atlanta to study in Fulton and other counties the Georgia system of working convicts on the public roads. They arrived Thursday morning and will be in Georgia the remainder of the week. In the party besides Governor Hooper are the following:

Ben A. Morton, Knoxville, president of the Southern Appalachian Coal Operators' association; Jere Whitson, Cookeville, banker and good roads enthusiast; C. C. Menzler, Chattanooga, secretary of the state board of charities; Joe B. Weems, Dickson, chairman of the road commission of his county; T. N. Smith, Clarksville tobacco magnate; John A. Denton, Dayton, lawyer and good roads enthusiasts; Dr. A. H. Purdue, Nashville, state geologist.

Tennessee has a model state prison seven miles from Nashville, where 1,200 convicts are worked by contract in shops of various kinds inside the prison walls, and where a large force of convicts are worked by the state on a truck and dairy farm of 3,700 acres adjacent to the prison.

The state owns valuable coal mines at Petros, in east Tennessee, where 800 convicts are worked as miners.

In 1915 the contract for operating the shops in the state prison near Nashville will expire, and the question of how the convicts shall be employed after that time has become a live one in Tennessee.

TALKS TO REPORTER.

Governor Hooper Thursday morning in an interview with The Journal set forth the convict and road situation in his state as follows:

"The question of the disposition of the convicts next year is a live one with several different angles and has excited a great deal of public interest.

"To begin with, there is a strong sentiment for improving the highways of the state, and a good many of these enthusiasts believe the quickest and surest way to build good roads is by means of the convicts.

"In the second place there is a strong sentiment among the laboring people of the state against the contract system now in vogue at the state prison, and these people also lean toward the idea of working the convicts on the public roads.

"In the third place, there is some sentiment among the coal operators and the miners against the state continuing to compete with them in the coal business.

"Last, but not least, the idea of prison reform has taken a strong hold in Tennessee in the last few years, and a very considerable part of the people will be inclined to make the welfare of the convicts the question of first importance and the matter of where they shall be worked a question of secondary consideration.

"The gentlemen accompanying me represent these various phases of thought.

"Before I became governor I was enthusiastically in favor of working the convicts on the public roads. At that time I was thinking of the roads and not of the convicts. Since becoming governor I have devoted a large part of my time to the question of prison reform.

MADE MANY REFORMS.

"During this period we have erected a state reformatory for boys, have taken the stripes off the convicts, have established a school and library in the state prison, have enacted a parole and indeterminate sentence law, have substituted electrocution for hanging, and in various other ways have placed Tennessee in the lead of southern states in prison reform.

"My activities along these lines have not caused me to forget my former enthusiasm for good roads, but have caused me to place the moral and physical welfare of the prisoners far above every material consideration."

Governor Hooper declined to discuss politics, either in his state or nationally. He is the nominee of the Republicans and Independent Democrats of his state for re-election. The regular Democratic convention of Tennessee is now in session at Nashville to nominate his opponent.

"My interest in prison reform and good roads is greater than my interest in the political situation in Tennessee," said the governor. "In coming here to investigate your system of working convicts on the public roads I left the regular Democratic convention in session at Nashville nominating my opponent."

Governor Hooper and his party, together with Dr. S. W. McCallie, state geologist of Georgia, were taken in automobiles over the roads and to the convict camps of Fulton county Thursday morning by County Commissioner S. B. Turman.

HEARING POSTPONED ON FRANK MOTION VERDICT

Delay Due to Solicitor, Who Will Be Busy Checking Brief of Evidence

The hearing of the motion to set aside the verdict of guilty against Leo M. Frank on the ground that he was not in court, when it was rendered, which was set for Friday, has been postponed for a week.

Also an announcement was made by Deputy Sheriff Plennie Minor Thursday that the routine session of the criminal court, scheduled for next Monday, has been postponed for a week. All jurors and witnesses subpoenaed for Monday are requested to appear Monday week at the court room on the first floor of the old city hall building.

The postponement of the hearing of the Frank motion and of the routine session of the court have both been occasioned by the engagement during the present week of the entire force of Solicitor General Hugh M. Dorsey in checking the brief of evidence in the extraordinary motion for a new trial. This work has been completed. Judge R. H. Hill has signed th ebill of exceptions and the extraordinary motion is on its way to the supreme court.

The solicitor, however, has been forced to neglect his preparation for the motion to set aside, and as a result the delay has been necessitated.

No sessions of the grand jury, unless they are called by the foreman, will be held until the latter part of next week, because of the engagement of the solicitor's force.

URGES SCHOOL REORGANIZATION

COURSES OF STUDY SHOULD BE REVISED, MISS PARRISH SAYS

the large number of children who drop out of the schools between the third and the seventh grades." She recommends a specific survey or this condition.

"Only a thorough reorganization of your course of study can put it in accord with modern thought and practice, and make it efficient. In all the cities which have reached a high grade of educational efficiency, there is a distinct attempt to relate the work of the schools to the experience of the children and to the social and industrial life of the city. The Atlanta course of study has been static so many years the city has outgrown it. To make it efficient, it must be made over again from a different standpoint and with different ideals. But no city can copy safely the work of another. Conditions and needs vary in all cases."

Miss Parrish finds that the trouble with the course of study in the elementary schools is that it is too abstract, too unrelated to the many things that interest or later will concern the children of Atlanta, too formal, too bedecked with devitalizing details.

SCORES TIME LIMITS.

She scores the time limits placed on subjects and criticises their relative ratings in value. She believes it would be better to put it up to the teachers to get results, and leave them to adjust the matter of time. The local course of study has an immense preponderance in favor of the formal and drill subjects, and much smaller emphasis is laid on the content subjects than in other cities.

In arithmetic, for example, she found nowhere any real connection between it and any form of life or work in Atlanta. "Neither children nor teachers know much of Atlanta industries, and the children were given no experience whatever in facing the problems of home, shop, factory or store."

"There was a most interesting sort of detachment," she reports, "from anything outside of the text-book, and most of the teachers seemed oblivious that arithmetic is a tool to be used in the work of everyday life."

The worst fault she saw in the class room work, she reports, was the great waste of time caused by the outworn method of teaching the class as a whole. This has given place in most cities to the group method, where ten or twelve children are gathered around the teacher and are instructed while the remainder of the class is occupied with hand work or the study of another lesson.

VOCATIONAL TRAINING.

She believes vocational training should be started in the elementary grades, because many children who have to work must begin as wage earners before they have time to complete the sixth grade. Ordinarily they drop out between the third and seventh grades.

"To say that they stay out or drop out to work is simply to affirm the need. I am urging," she reports, "if the schools could be reshaped to help the children in the work they have to do, more would be enrolled, and they would remain much longer."

Atlanta's vocational public grades prepare boys and girls now for office work, and boys for entrance to the Georgia Tech. "But there are many boys and girls not fitted for office work, and who must earn a living."

She finds the present course of study in the Girls' High school "is the traditional college preparatory course, with the emphasis on foreign language and a very meager provision for science. There is no provision whatever for the practical needs of the girls."

"CRUELTY TO GIRLS."

Two hundred and fifty-nine girls entered the first class in 1909-10; 98 of them graduated last year, and 17 of the 98 went to college.

"We have been forcing upon 259 girls a course of study which only about three-eighths remain to finish, and only one-fifteenth ever use as is intended. We serve our girls the choice of an education beyond the grammar grades or of preparation for office work, or of four years of strenuous endeavor largely in studies whose value is now in dispute, without the very definite aim to help them most in the performance of duties which our social order imposes, is a cruelty to them, and a social and economical mistake for which Atlanta is now paying very dearly. All of them will enter the social life of homes. Ninety per cent of them will marry and become mothers. For these duties the schools provide no training whatever. At least 50 per cent of Atlanta girls will need to work for a living. For this you are offering them training in office work alone."

Miss Parrish's report scores the Girls' High school plant, recommends a new building on bigger grounds, recommends the wrecking of several other school buildings as unsafe and inadequate, urges improvements badly needed in sanitation, ventilation, heating, and fire protection and recommends that schoolgrounds be opened as playgrounds and recreation parks (even for young ladies of the spooning age, under proper safeguards) at all times when the schools are not in use.

WEEKLY NORMAL CLASSES.

Miss Parrish seems gravely to regard the present weekly normal classes as more or less of a joke.

"The form of work in the schools seems to have originated in a very laudable desire on the part of your superintendent to improve the teachers in the knowledge of subject matter, but I think the system is outworn, if indeed it ever had any real value," she reports. None but competent teachers should be employed, she says. Incompetents should be trained or dismissed. "Your superintendent and his supervisors would then be free to reshape the weekly 'normals' in the interest of better methods of presenting matter to the children and of better adaptation of the work to the experience of the child and to home and community needs."

She believes the examination of teachers who have graduated from women's schools known nationally is a waste of time. They should be certified without question. "There may be some unworthy college graduates," she says, "but it is also true that the usual teachers' examination is one of the poorest test of a teacher's knowledge and ability ever devised."

SCHEDULE OF SALARIES.

"In studying your schedule of salaries," she continues, "I find no recognition of efficiency. In my opinion, this is destructive of the best interests of your schools. I strongly recommend that some plan be devised by which efficiency may be recognized and encouraged."

One of Miss Parrish's recommendations is radical. It is that a model settlement school be erected in place of the present ruin at Exposition Mills—"with equipment for both school and community use, with playgrounds, gymnasium, baths, assembly rooms, shops, library, kitchen and dining room," she recommends, and here comes the radical part: "and with a teachers' cottage and a group of able and consecrated teachers who would be able to live among the people and give themselves to their service. Similar but much larger provisions at Davis street would be a rich paying investment."

In submitting her report, Miss Parrish concludes its preface with these words:

"The Atlanta city schools need the cooperation of parents, business men, organizations of women, city authorities, school officials, and teachers, in a redirection of forces which will gradually vitalize the schools, help them to react upon the life of the city, and thus give them the increased usefulness which the people have a right to expect."

GEORGIA AND HER POLITICS

FELDER PRAISES WILSON IN BLUE RIDGE SPEECH.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

BLUE RIDGE, Ga., May 28.—A splendid audience heard Thomas S. Felder speak here yesterday afternoon. The speaker was introduced by Homer Legg, chairman of the Fannin county Democratic executive committee, and from start to finish of the speech it was evident that the crowd was a Felder crowd.

Mr. Felder paid a splendid tribute to President Woodrow Wilson and the policies and methods of his administration. He declared that Wilson is the greatest president the United States has ever produced, that he has faced problems which that have never confronted any other president and that he has accomplished more than has been done in all the last fifty years. He declared also that currency reform has made impossible future panics in this country.

The speaker advocated, among other things, federal aid for post roads, a more rigid federal pension law, the election of federal judges for terms instead of for life, good behavior, and a reform of the credit system favorable to the farmer.

It is predicted by Mr. Felder's supporters here that he will carry the county by a good majority.

SLATON CLUB TO BE ORGANIZED IN BUTTS.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

JACKSON, Ga., May 28.—Announcement is made here that there will be a meeting of the friends of Governor Slaton on Tuesday, June 2, at which time a Slaton club will be organized in Butts county.

Former Senator S. H. Mays, who is taking a prominent part in the campaign for Governor Slaton, has issued the call.

DOCTOR SAYS ECLECTICS DEFEATED GRADY BONDS

G. W. D. Patterson Avers Issue Was Only for Benefit of Clique of Physicians

That the $750,000 issue of Grady hospital bonds were defeated by the hard and consistent work of the sixty Atlanta physicians of the eclectic school was asserted by Dr. G. W. D. Patterson, of Atlanta, secretary of the Georgia Eclectic Medical association after their initial session in the Winecoff hotel Thursday afternoon.

"We worked hard against those bonds, and we defeated them because they meant the spending of the city and the taxpayers' money simply to aid and foster the interest of a clique among physicians," said Dr. Patterson to a Journal reporter.

"There are twenty-one members on the Grady board of physicians; out of these fourteen are from the Atlanta Medical college.

"The Atlanta Medical college practically runs the Grady hospital; its students use the hospital freery as an adjunct to the college, and the college instructors and professors have the use of the Grady laboratory and operating rooms.

"On the other hand, not a single eclectic physician can even gain admittance to the hospital. If one of our patients is taken to the Grady, and asks for his physician and surgeon, there is no chance of the patient seeing him. For no eclectic is permitted by the Grady doctors, members of the Atlanta Medical association, to enter the hospital.

"The state law requires that every medical school shall have access to a hospital for instruction to its students and for the use of its professors, yet none of th estudents of the Georgia Eclectic College of Physicians and Surgeons in Atlanta are admitted to the Grady except the seniors, the men who are in their fourth year—and these are admitted only as spectators, as are the professors and instructors at the eclectic college.

Dr. Patterson said that steps would be taken soon by the eclectic physicians of Atlanta to get some of their number on the board of Grady physicians.

Sixty members of the Georgia Eclectic Medical association from all parts of the state of Georgia met in the ballroom of the Winecoff hotel for their two days' annual session Thursday morning at 11 o'clock. Dr. Dan H. Griffith, of Atlanta, presided as acting president, Dr. John S. Wood, formerly of Griffin, resigned Thursday morning as president because he has moved out of the state to Arcadia, Fla. His resignation was accepted with regret.

Beyond preliminary work towards getting the convention started, nothing was done Thursday morning. The doctors met again at 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

"The Georgia Eclectic Medical association is composed of 75 doctors who believe In being free to choose their own medical doctrines, and who do not believe in being subject to the hidebound customs as are the members of the American Medical association," said Dr. Patterson.

"The Eclectics still believe in the power of drugs in curing disease, the 'regulars,' as the American Medical association doctors are called, seemed to have discarded drugs in favor fashioned serums and mechanical devices and antitoxins.

"We believe in the efficiency of vegetable drugs especially; they scoff at vegetable drugs, insisting that many of them are 'inert'—that they have no power.

"One of these so-called inert drugs, for example, is the extract of cactus, a heart stimulant. Recently show will an overdose of this 'inert' drug has nearly killed several people.

"The 'regulars'—or allopaths—are insisting now, through the American Medical association, that no student shall enter a medical school recognized by the A. M. A. unless he shall have first had 2 3 Carnegie units—the equivalent of an undergraduate college course.

"We don't believe in that. Such rules mean that the poor man has no chance to be a doctor. Such rules mean that a physician, graduated under the A. M. A. laws, will be forced to charge such prices to gain back the time and money spent in college and n medical school that a poor man can afford to have him for a doctor."

At the afternoon session of the convention Thursday John F. White, president of the board of trustees of the Atlanta Eclectic medical college will speak on "The Future of Our College." Dr. John H. Pound, of Atlanta, will read a paper to the physicians.

Thursday night the eclectic doctors will attend in a body the commencement exercises at the Atlanta theater of the Eclectic Medical college.

FOREIGN TRADE BOOSTED BY SUPPORT OF WILSON

Bryan and Redfield Assure National Trade Convention of President's Attitude

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 28.—Assurances by Secretaries Bryan and Redfield to the National Foreign Trade convention, in session here, that the administration earnestly desires to increase American foreign commerce and to widen the field of American enterprise through co-operation with the business men of the country, was being discussed with keen interest today by delegates to the convention.

Secretaries Bryan and Redfield, not only gave assurances that President Wilson was desirous of aiding in the development of the country's commerce abroad and at home, but that the departments over which they presided—the department of state and of commerce—would lend every legitimate assistance to the movement. Members of the convention expressed the opinion today that these assurances would give increased impetus to the movement.

After telling the delegates of President Wilson's desires "for those policies which will promote our industry at home as well as abroad," Secretary Bryan said reduction of the tariff has increased trade between the United States and other countries and declared the new currency law would do more to promote trade in foreign lands than any other thing done in American history.

The making of friends for Americans in foreign countries was another step taken by the administration to encourage America's foreign trade, according to Secretary Bryan. In this connection he referred to President Wilson's speech at Mobile, Ala., last fall to the effect that the United States would never take another foot of land by conquest, saying it had done more to encourage American commerce than any speech ever delivered. By that speech, he said, the president opened the doors of all the weaker nations to the invasion of American capital and enterprise. Secretary Bryan asserted the great fear of the weaker nations with which the United States seeks to establish trade is that an army will follow business enterprises.

Another step in the movement the secretary said was that the administration is trying to unite the world in the bonds of universal peace.

MILITANT SHOUTS AT MAGISTRATE IN COURT

French Woman Arrested for Smashing Windows Refuses Hearing

LONDON, May 28.—A French militant suffragette, who was arrested for smashing three windows at the National gallery, shouted continually when she was brought before the magistrate at Bow street court today.

The prisoner refused to give her name and told the magistrate she did not want to hear anything. She was remanded for a further hearing.

When arrested the woman was carrying a bundle of stones, some of which she had used on the windows of the National gallery.

POSTPONE FIRST OF GUNDY SUITS OVER REAL ESTATE

Florida Woman Claims Several Million Dollars' Worth of Atlanta Property

The first of the suits filed by Mrs. Eleanor Howell Gunby, now of Florida, claimant of several million dollars' worth of Atlanta property under an old deed of trust dated in the '60s, was set for a hearing before Judge John T. Pendleton, of the superior court, on Thursday, but was checked for the term in order that the plaintiffs might prepare to meet amendments filed by the defendants.

The case has been brought into court in the form of an ejectment suit, which is directed technically against the tenants of property on Alabama street, near Forsyth, owned by the Mary J. Rucker estate.

The questions of fact have been agreed upon, and attorneys expected to go into the main trial before Judge Pendleton without a jury until the amendments were filed and then Mrs. Gunby's attorneys, Hall, Irwin, Howell & Heyman, asked for additional time.

While the suit, which was to have been tried, involves only the Alabama street property of the Rucker estate, valued at about $200,000, a number of suits brought by Mrs. Gunby against holders of other property, hinge on the first suit, and probably fifty property owners are actively interested in the suit for that reason.

A number of fine legal points are involved in the case which is being closely watched by attorneys generally.

PLAN GREAT TIME FOR COLLEGE PARK HOME DAY

Final arrangements for home-coming day in College Park next Friday have been completed by the committee in charge and the little town is in readiness to receive its guests at the first sign of dawn.

The board of trade under whose auspices the event was planned is receiving the hearty co-operation of the Woman's club which will entertain with a massive basket picnic. The College Park business houses will be closed from 10 a. m. until 2 p. m., and residents who go to Atlanta daily will remain at home.

The program includes speeches, music and athletic events.

Market in New York Closed Unchanged to 28 Pts. Up From Previous Close

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 28.—There was a renewal of yesterday's buying at the opening of the cotton market today. First prices were firm with active months two to twelve points higher, new high ground being established. The buying was encouraged by firm cables, continued unsettled weather in the southwest and further bullish reports but there was heavy realizing for over-the-holiday and government reports and prices eased off several points after the call.

The western belt forecast for continued showers and a favorable crop report placing the condition at 73.9 and indicating a decrease of 2 10 of 1 per cent in acreage, caused renewed buying in the morning with old crop months selling 22 to 31 and new crop deliveries 16 to 21 points not higher. There was a few points shortly after midday under heavy realizing.

The market was rather easier during the afternoon on a different report of conditions here in some eastern sections of the belt and continued unsettled weather, closing barely 1 to some 13 to 24 points net higher, but the new crop sold back to about last night's closing figures.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON MARKET

(By Associated Press.)

NEW ORLEANS, May 28.—Cotton today opened 4 to 7 points up and went seven to nine up soon after on wet weather in Texas and a private condition report of 73.9 per cent. Later it turned heavy and realizing and the ring was unable to absorb the offerings. Hall & Price after the opening prices went one point over yesterday's close and up.

The unfavorable detailed weather report sent prices to a level due to twelve points up on liquidation grew heavier than ever and at 11 o'clock ranged about seven to five up.

COTTON MARKET OPINIONS.

Shearson Hammill & Co.: Looks as if prices would change until no buying movement of consequence at the weather turns more favorable.

Hentze Meyer & Co.: We believe in higher prices.

Logan & Bryan: Tendency of values will likely keep toning higher prices for the present. We look for a good crop.

While the market is undoubtedly getting overbought on account of weather reports, we can expect the advance to continue, although not past profitable place too long a store in the stability of a weather market. We settle cautious at this time.

HAYWARD & CLARK COTTON LETTER

NEW ORLEANS, May 28.—Our weekly crop map continues to show unfavorable conditions over the western states and more rainfall and cool again general and heavy, and over the eastern states very backward and unfavorable. Crops are good over the central belt where cloudy weather prevailed and rain fell over large area.

Indications are for continued unsettled and showery weather in the western half of the belt with danger of another rain disturbance coming on it towards Sunday, followed by considerably better weather for the central and eastern quarter. Cloudy and showery weather is likely over the central belt and eastern half for the week over the eastern states.

There is a great deal of realizing today at the start of the session which caused some reaction, but the selling was pretty well absorbed and the market soon firmed on again. Present prices for the new crop look high for comparison and support is naturally cautious. The bullish reports of the Journal of Commerce showing the unusual lateness of the crop indicated high in the summer positions in New York.

Norden & Co. say that the revised acreage investigation shows 2 per cent decline from last month and a decrease now of 4 per cent from last year. Condition 73.9.

The indicated into field for the week is 60,000 against 75.84 last year, and we compare with weekly takings of 218,000 for the week, which will not be reached this year.

NEW YORK COTTON LETTER.

NEW YORK, May 28.—We started out with heavy realizing by scattered longs and some of the prominent bull leaders, but offerings were readily taken and only depressed prices a few points. Unfavorable reports that came from the western belt caused by continued rains and floods in some sections, also the unfavorable news from the eastern belt, checked recent buying, some of which came from the south and a few prominent brokers who are identified with the bull side.

The views were encouraged on the detailed soon weather report showing rain at 38 stations in the Dallas section district, the rainfall ranging to 5.92 inches, but around the noon hour these were somewhat over shadowed by heavy selling by ring crowd, but at this writing the markets steady on the theory that absence of consequence is expected in the face of present conditions and pending the government condition report, which will be issued Monday and tomorrow being the last day for cotton as a holiday.

July has led the other options today and it is believed that most of this was short covering by belated bears. Some local weather experts predict more favorable weather for the western belt for the next few days.

It will be hard to overcome the damage already sustained, therefore I would not advise selling the market short until further developments.—Anderson.

HUSBAND AND WIFE UNITE IN PRAISE

Of the Old, Reliable Thedford's Black-Draught, Which Has Been in Constant Use for Over 70 Years.

Clifton Station, Va.—Mr. W. O. Putnam, of this town, says: "I have been using Thedford's Black-Draught, and I would not do without it.

I am well of a very bad case of stomach trouble, after using only a few packages, and I think it is fine for indigestion and headache.

My wife has also frequently used Black-Draught for constipation and headache, and thinks it is worth its weight in gold. She would not be without it in the house.

I recommend Black-Draught to my friends, and tell them what it did for me. You are at liberty to publish my letter, as it might be the means of helping some suffering person."

You cannot go wrong in taking Thedford's Black-Draught for any derangement of the liver, stomach or bowels.

Thedford's is the old original, genuine, powdered liver medicine, having been successfully and extensively used long before its many imitators began to try to build on its success.

Black-Draught has been found to quickly and permanently relieve such symptoms of liver and stomach troubles as constipation, biliousness, indigestion, headache, sour stomach, etc., thereby cleansing and purifying the blood, and restoring the system to its normal condition and efficiency.

Black-Draught belongs in your home. Get a 25-cent package from your druggist today—costs only one cent a dose. (Advt.)

Candidates From Journal and Constitution Chosen to Attend Sixtieth Session in Providence, R. I., August 10

By a margin of fourteen votes, B. Roscoe Black, of The Journal, led the balloting Wednesday in Atlanta Typographical union No. 48 for delegates to the sixtieth session of the international union to be held in Providence, R. COUNTY COLLECTS ONLY $947.68 INHERITANCE TAX

No Effort Made to Force Appraisements Cause of Low Figure

In Fulton county only $347.68 has been collected under the inheritance tax law, which passed the legislature last year and was signed by the governor on August 19, 1913, despite the fact that wills of several people, said to be millionaires, have been probated.

While a provision was made in the tax law for it, no effort has been made by the state in this county to force the making of appraisements on which the tax levy can be made. And only the administrators of three estates have voluntarily had the appraisements made by the ordinary, who is Judge John R. Wilkinson.

The inheritance tax law assesses a tax of 1 per cent of all property over $5,000 inherited by each heir.

The estates which have been appraised are those of Mrs. Elizabeth E. Langford, William J. Hodges and Morris Wiseberg. The two first named estates are so small that when the division is made no one heir will inherit more than $5,000.

The eight children of the late Morris Wiseberg are the heirs of his estate, whose appraised value is $84,119, which makes each child receive $9,346.45. As a result Judge Wilkinson has ruled that each heir must pay an inheritance tax of $43.46, making a total for the estate of $347.68.

The principal property of the estate is Nos. 41 and 43 Peachtree street, whose appraised value is fixed at $80,000.

It is conservatively estimated that the aggregate value of the estates in the county which supposedly come under the law is $5,000,000. It is stated that of the aggregate approximately $4,000,000 would come under the inheritance tax law, making a possible collection of about $40,000 in the county.

It is said that attorneys are preparing to attack the constitutionality of the inheritance tax law, but no litigation of the sort has yet been started in the county.

Wilson will be known in history as the warless president.

Why work when the fish are biting and a bumper blackberry crop is in the making?

With fourteen cents or more for cotton, there is no reason why we shouldn't be satisfied with the Democrats.

Bringing Jobs and Men Together.

Secretary Wilson, of the federal Department of Labor, has adopted an interesting plan for dealing with the problem of the employed. He has ordered bulletins placed in postoffices throughout the country, announcing the demand for twelve thousand men to harvest and thresh the wheat crop in Oklahoma. There will be a similar demand, it is believed, in Kansas, Nebraska, the Dakotas, Iowa, Wisconsin, Missouri and Minnesota, for, all omens indicate that the wheat crop this year will be the most bounteous America has ever known. Employment will thus be open for seventy-five thousand or a hundred thousand men.

The Secretary of Labor believes that the Government can render much service in connecting the man without a job and the job without a man. Drifting in the big cities are thousands of men, some of whom are inveterate idlers but many of whom are eager for work. By making known the need for laborers in the West, the Government will open the way to opportunity, at least for those who are worthy, and at the same time it will be aiding agricultural interests.

The postoffices are now being used as a means of bringing city consumers and country producers in closer trade relations through the parcel post. Why not use them as a means of bringing employers and employes together? The problem of unemployment is due in part at least to the lack of just such a medium. Secretary Wilson's plan is well conceived, and it will be peculiarly interesting to watch its results.

Closely akin to his idea is that of the municipal employment bureau, which seeks to secure jobs for men out of work. These institutions in no wise conflict with private agencies, which deal for the most part with trained workers and special demands. Certainly it behooves the government, whether municipal, State or national, to do everything possible to lessen the number of the unemployed. Wisely directed efforts upon this line will go far toward solving many of our social and economic problems.

Candidates should remember that platforms should be permanent structures.

The drouth has been broken in south Georgia. Now let the weather man make it unanimous.

There is certainly no false modesty about Colonel Roosevelt. The voters will not be left in doubt about what he has done.

The Habit of Waste.

A striking instance of American prodigality is found in recent figures from the National Bureau of Mines to the effect that our waste of minerals alone amounts to a million dollars a day. A quarter of a billion tons of coal are lost annually in mining and handling, and in oil and gas fields there is a sacrifice of not less than fifty million dollars a year.

This costly carelessness marks the simplest affairs of husbandry and commerce as well as the exploitation of the greatest stores of natural treasure. The Department of Agriculture has shown that millions upon millions of dollars are lost through the lack of proper methods in packing and shipping eggs. It is a matter of record that Chinese dealers send eggs all the way across the Pacific with less breakage than that of American eggs shipped a hundred miles.

We of the United States marvel that in Old World countries four or five acres of land will support an entire family. The difference is not altogether one of standards of living; it is largely a difference between thrift and wastefulness, between patient regard for little economies and hurried ambition to deal only with what is big.

Evidently, however, the idea of conservation is taking hold on our national thought, and in time, we may hope, it will make itself felt in individual as well as common interests. Conservation calls for the scientific use of resources, whether they be those of forest, field, stream or mine, or those of single use for the household. Science abhors waste, for, it sees that all things are valuable; and as the spirit of science pervades our thought and conduct we shall become a more efficient people.

Most of us can see a sorrow twice as far away as a blessing.

The mediators will not tarry in Canada as long as there is a baseball game in the United States.

Disappointed candidates can console themselves with the thought that the office sought the wrong man.

Georgia's Transportation Facilties

Georgia has the largest railroad mileage of any Southern State east of the Mississippi, and, with the exception of Texas and Missouri, the largest of any of the sixteen States in the entire Southern group. Texas has 16,409 miles of railroad, Missouri 8,263, and Georgia 7,536. The railroad mileage of the remainder of the South is set forth as follows in the Manufacturers Record: Alabama, 5,524; Arkansas, 5,439; Florida, 5,184; Kentucky, 4,043; Louisiana, 5,473; Maryland, including the District of Columbia, 1,624; Mississippi, 4,384; North Carolina, 5,709; Oklahoma, 6,497; South Carolina, 3,715; Tennessee, 4,192; Virginia, 4,686; and West Virginia, 4,006.

Georgia's progress in the field of transportation facilities is strikingly witnessed by the fact that in 1871 it had only 1,875 miles of railway. In 1880 this had increased to 2,432 miles; in 1890 to 4,557; in 1910 to 7,442 miles and 1913 to 7,536 miles. It is noteworthy, too, that there are forty-eight distinct lines of railroad in active operation in Georgia, a greater number of individual lines than are to be found in any other State of the Union.

The growth of electric railways has been more pronounced in Georgia than in any other part of the Southeast, and recent years have witnessed a notable increase in interurban lines. These developments have lately been accompanied by an even more remarkable advance in the improvement of public highways. The State is credited with some 84,000 miles of highway, of which 22,000 are classed as "improved." This last estimate may appear somewhat too liberal in its employment of the term "improved," but Georgia's progress in good roads is undoubtedly great, and as soon as a system of State supervision is adopted, its good roads work will be given fresh impetus.

A State's development depends very largely on facilities for transportation, whether they be in the form of steam and electric railroads, navigable rivers, or public highways. Every added mile of railroad, every improved mile of highway extends the opportunities for agriculture, industry and commerce, and quickens the pace in every path of material development. Georgia has reason to be proud, but by no means satisfied, with what it has already accomplished in this respect. The growth of its farming and industrial interests in the next few decades will call for transportation facilities far more efficient and extensive than those now available.

The next president of Mexico will have to please Uncle Sam as well as his own constituents.

If Colonel Roosevelt expects to attack Wilson, he had better select something a great deal less popular than the administration's foreign policy.

The Crux of the Peace Plan.

The ultimate success of the Mexican peace conference will depend largely on the attitude of the Constitutionalists.

There has been little difficulty in adjusting the differences between the United States and Huerta. The South American mediators and the Mexican delegates realized in the outset that nothing short of Huerta's retirement would satisfy the United States; there remained, of course, the question of material indemnity but that was of slight consequence in comparison with other issues. Though there has been no official announcement, it is known to a reasonable degree of certainty that Huerta is ready to withdraw at the decisive moment.

Thus the question of paramount importance is, what shall be the nature and personnel of the government that takes the place of the Huerta regime, pending an election?

It is just here that the counsel and co-operation of the Constitutionalists become essential. The fact is, the Constitutionalists are more entitled than any other group to speak for Mexico. They control most of its territory and certainly represent the mass of its people.

Thus far Carranza has held aloof from the conference at Niagara Falls; but he has shown no hostility toward its purposes and it is believed that he will be represented in the latter stages of its discussions. His refusal to enter the conference at the beginning was due entirely to the fact that had he done so, he would have been compelled to declare an armistice with Huerta; and that, the Constitutionalists could not afford to do at a time when their campaign was on the border of complete victory.

But since Huerta's elimination is now practically assured they can well afford to enter a plan that looks to the future peace and welfare of their country. This, it is hoped will be their attitude.

Editorials in Brief

When the man at the Broadway restaurant table had paid tribute to the hireling who had waited on him, he inquired of his companion how that sort of payment had ever got the name of "tip." Some men might have been ignorant on so abstruse a subject, but this one was from Boston.

"That's easy," he replied with Bostonese modesty. "In the old tavern days in England it was customary to have a contribution box nailed to the wall where those who had been served could deposit a penny or two for the benefit of the servitors. This bore the inscription, 'To insure promptness.' Hence the pennies deposited there became known as 'tips.' See?"—New York Sun.

THE NEW RENAISSANCE

BY DR. FRANK CRANE

(Copyright, 1914, by Frank Crane.)

We are in the mewling and creeping infancy of Art.

Almost all of our products are ludicrous, because we have no conception of the value of Beauty to Life.

As a people we do not want beautiful things. What we want is to get more things to eat, to wear, and to display.

So our cities are ugly, our houses are depressing, our furniture is vulgar, and our clothes are wholly without taste.

This age is probably the ugliest in history.

The reason of this is that Art is under the baneful patronage of Wealth.

The so-called Art treasures of New York, Chicago or Boston are in museums, or in the houses of the rich. These cities are themselves hideous, without artistic unity.

There can be no real Art until THE PEOPLE want it, until the whole community feels the hunger for the Beautiful.

A Democracy that wants to be Rich can never be artistic. A Democracy that has such a system of wealth distribution that its common profits go to a few successful persons, to whom beauty means luxury, will remain forever ugly.

We shall have real Art only when the homes of the poor are built with as much taste as those of the rich;

When the Business Street of a town is planned with a view to picturesqueness and charm even as a millionaire's suburban residence;

When we want to WORK under conditions of Beauty, as well as to house our families in charming environment;

When we will not tolerate a South Clark street in Chicago nor an East Side human rabbit warren in New York;

When each city shall have a unified Plan and allow the erection of no building that is not harmonious;

When we realize that Beautiful Things cannot be owned, but are in the nature of the case Public;

When we realize that Ugly Office Buildings, Streets and Houses make Ugly Souls;

When we resolve that every inch of the City shall be beautiful;

When CHEAP houses, furniture and pictures are made as beautiful in their way as the expensive, and money ceases to mean beauty;

When Art Becomes Democratic for ALL, when the People learn good taste, when the Multitudes shall demand Beauty, and when Public Opinion shall ridicule and banish Ugliness everywhere;

When we shall cease stuffing Museums with Art objects, and shall apply the money to making our whole environment beautiful;

And when Art is no more to be the fad of the Few, and THE PEOPLE REALLY CARE.

So long as Art is a time-server of Plutocracy it must remain sterile and vulgar.

The new Renaissance will come when Art is set free from subserviency, and begins to build the city, decorate the streets, adorn the public buildings, and beautify the homes of THE PEOPLE.

From Atlanta to Macon in an Hour by Automobile

BY R. L. WILLIAMS, JR.

From Atlanta to Macon by automobile in one hour! Is such a thing possible? The writer thinks that it is not only possible, but very probable within the next few years.

Atlanta and Macon are very close together. Only seventy-seven miles separate the two cities. Atlanta is already Georgia's largest city. At Macon's present growth sfe will soon be second. Cities of such importance, so close together, should certainly be bound together by a band of concrete.

What would be the cost of such a highway, and what its value? The cost in dollars and cents would be not exceeding 15 cents per square foot for a six-inch concrete road. A thirty-foot concrete road would cost $23,760 per mile, a twenty-foot road $15,840. Six-inch concrete alleys are laid in Macon for about 12 cents per square foot. The other 3 cents would take care of the grading and the extra difficulty of obtaining water. An airline road would pass through about 74 miles of Fulton county, one mile of DeKalb, eight through Clayton, twenty-one through Henry, nine through Butts, twenty-four through Monroe, and eight through Bibb. Fulton, DeKalb and Bibb could very easily take care of that part passing through these counties. A thirty-foot road from the DeKalb line to the Bibb line would cost around $1,400,000, a twenty-foot road something over $900,000. There is no waste in a concrete road, and probably twenty feet in width would be ample.

When we consider that all the sand, water and crushed rock necessary for such a road could be obtained along the way, as there are ample quantities of the last at Stockbridge, Juliette and Holton; that we have the labor, and that all the cement can be bought in Georgia, we see that all the money expended practically goes back in the same jug.

I have before me a newspaper clipping stating that Americans spend $320,000,000 per year for soda water, or about $3.20 "per head." This means that Georgia spends for this item about $10,000,000 annually, enough money to build a thirty-foot concrete road from Chattanooga to Jacksonville by way of Atlanta, Macon and Waycross. I submit these facts for what they are worth. The reader can draw his own conclusions.

What would be the value of such a road? As a shortener of distance it would be wonderful. Any old stock car could make the trip from Atlanta to Macon within two hours. Railroad crossings could be eliminated. It would mean much to the farmers and merchants along the way, as well as to the business men of the cities. The road would last indefinitely, and there would be no expense of upkeep. It is said that one of the concrete roads in Michigan costs only 5 cents per mile per year. It is hard to estimate the value of such a road, but it would be worth far more than it cost.

The advertising feature would be great. Good farmers would be drawn to the country along this road. It would have a helpful effect on other sections of the state. The writer believes that this is but the beginning of the concrete age. He expects to see within a few years airline concrete roads from Chattanooga to Atlanta, to Macon, to Waycross, to Jacksonville, from Columbus to Macon to Savannah, from Macon to Augusta, from Columbus to Atlanta to Augusta. And we have enough material for all this, and some left for other states.

We have the material. Why not utilize it? Georgia is destined to be one of the very greatest states in the union from every standpoint. Let us put the material we have where it belongs. It has been lying around loose long enough.

The Modern Girl

We knock and criticise her,
We scold, apostrophize her,
We wish that she were wiser,
More capable and kind.
Her path we're always stalking
To criticise her talking,
Her clothes, her ways of walking,
Her manners and her mind.
We say, "Oh, highty-tighty!
She's frivolous and flighty,
And all her ways are mighty!
Undignified to see;
She dances and she chatters,
Our golden rule she shatters,
And laughs at serious matters
With unabated glee!"
We chide and we correct her,
We shadow and detect her,
We study and dissect her,
With all her smiles and tears,
And find, on looking o'er her
(And learning to adore her),
She's just like girls before her
For twenty thousand years!

The Conning Tower

BY FRANKLIN P. ADAMS.

On our way down town last night we heard a pair discussing the weather, as pairs will. One indorsed yesterday as having been rather a capable performance, meteorologically. But the other wouldn't have it. It was too windy; too hot in the sun and too cool in the shade; and such a day, they couldn't fool him, was a sure sign of some rotten, rainy days next week. The dialogue, far from irritating or depressing us, was highly inspiring. In a long columnar career we have never—don't argue with us—created anything so fine as yesterday's weather. We shall try to think of that finicky gentleman every time there arises a suspicion that somebody may not be enthralled, amused, uplifted and fascinated by every line in this Abacus of Asteism.

We never, as exclusively announced in the preceding paragraph, created a day of any kind. But you remember the California man who said, "Well, this is a lovely day, if I do say so."

THE GENTLEMAN'S COAT, IT SEEMS, HAS DISAPPEARED.
(From the Pecos (Tex.) Times.)

In some manner not clearly understood, my coat has disappeared from the Commercial club rooms. It made its getaway some time between Saturday night and Monday morning. It is a brown garment that suited me quite well, and its loss inconveniences me considerably, since I have two pairs of trousers of the same material at home. This inconvenience is enhanced, too, by the fact that in the pockets of the coat were a number of letters, more or less personal in their nature; some papers that are of value to me only, and a memorandum book in which I have been keeping data that is of particular value to me.

If you know anything about the coat, I have several ways for communication to you: First, if you'll return the coat, I'll be glad to pay you for your trouble, and shall ask no questions; second, I'll swap you a pair of perfectly good trousers for the coat; third, if you don't feel inclined to avail yourself of either of the above opportunities, then "have a heart" and send me back the letters, papers, and the notebook that were in the pockets of the garment; and, fourth, if your compassion has not been stirred by any of these appeals, make yourself scarce when you are connected with the coat, and be sure, if pursued by officers, that you will have instructions to shoot you in the legs, for the coat's sake. Finally, if the coat is discovered by anyone, anywhere, in whatever condition of unseemliness, I'll be glad to receive it back upon my waiting arms.

DEBT.
By Our Own Wait Mason.

Alas! it is an awful thing for any man to be in debt; it takes out all his snap, by jing, and causes him to feel blue as indigo. He cannot reach aloft to board the ship Success, but, on his knees, he is by Debt, a blazing sword, transformed into a Damocles. Quite often he's a surly brute, with optimistic view of life—a citizen of ill repute, whose neighbors swear he beats his wife. He goes around and can't forget his earthly troubles and his woes, and all because the demon Debt has got him in its evil throes. Beware of such a plight, my friends; be sure to make your income reach;
stretch what you have until both ends meet solidly each one to each. If you would keep

The Verb "To Film"

The verb "to film" having gained currency, it must be graciously admitted to the language. It will soon be in the "advanced" dictionaries and it must be recognized. The old idea of protecting the English language from invasion is extinct. To "film" means to make a picture for a "movie" show. "Movie" is a colloquy the world now, too, but all the elite use it. The moving pictures are doing much more than revolutionize the language. They are broadening the public knowledge, making globe trotters of the stay-at-homes, showing us the wonders of the growth of plants and the development of animal life. As for their influence on the drama, they have none in any true sense. Moving pictures, even when they are accompanied by talking machines of the best quality, must always be a feeble substitute for histrionism. The actor's art is not to suffer. Whenever it is manifested it will get its reward.

But the theatrical stage has long survived without much real histrionism to brag of, and the moving pictures outdo its best shows. They give you real ocean with towering waves instead of painted canvas; they present the story in motion, and sometimes in color, with such a variety of changing scene as to satisfy the eye. Dr. Johnson would doubtless have found that moving pictures interested him more than Shakespeare's "Antony and Cleopatra" on account of their frequent changes of scene. When the villain throws the heroine off a cliff into a boiling torrent there is a real cliff and the torrent is authentic. No doubt, in the present enormous popularity of the moving picture will abate in time, but some of the current picture shows are really marvels of selection, patience and skill, and they will always survive as illustrations of travel, as aids to the understanding of natural history. As a substitute for the theater they will do well enough until there is a revival of real histrionism, until great actors come again to exercise their "sway o'er hearts." Meanwhile, whether 16,000,000 persons daily attend the moving pictures in this country, according to the evidence placed before the house committee on education at Washington, or only 6,000,000, which seems a more reasonable number, the vogue of the moving picture is surely at its height.—New York Times.

THE BRITISH CRISIS

XVII.—THE IRISH QUESTION.

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

DUBLIN.—The reason why all England is afraid of civil war is Ireland. And the reason why Ireland is arming and drilling and shooting the bull's eye out of targets is England. These two elemental facts are not denied. They probably say all that anybody may say on Ireland and the Irish question without encountering a fierce denial from somebody or other.

It doesn't require a monumental knowledge of history to know that the Irish don't love their English governors. To which statement certain Irishmen of Ulster will except on the grounds that they are Irish, that they do love their English governors, and that the Irish are not capable of governing themselves. That may be confusing to the simple and unsophisticated American, but it is as clear as crystal to an Ulsterman, who soberly explains that he is drilling in the volunteers because he is loyal, and that on account of his loyalty to the king he will shoot any of the king's soldiers who come to Ulster with the purpose of enforcing a certain law that is in imminent danger of being enacted by the king's most excellent majesty.

Now, in Dublin town the Irishman also drills and shoots the bull's eyes out of targets, but he is less conversational. He has been fighting for home rule for these many years. It has been promised him more than once, and the promises were not redeemed. The prospects seem to be better this time, and he believes the Liberal government at London means what it says, at least as long as Mr. Redmond holds it in his power to turn that government out at any moment. But he has heard of these Ulstermen arming beyond the Boyne, and if there is to be a fight he figures that a little green will look well alongside of so much orange.

The Ulsterman doesn't want home rule. He tells you why, very simply. He says home rule means Rome rule. It is all a scheme of the pope to regain his ascendency in Ireland in order that he may exterminate the Protestant religion and incidentally exterminate the Protestants. There may be politics in it, as, of course, there is, but the Orange man of Ulster sees but one thing, and sees that red. The rule of Rome and the ruin of Ulster.

Ireland is divided into approximately four quarters that are known as provinces. South lies Munster, west is Connaught, east is Leinster, and north lies Ulster. Ulster also has something like a fourth of the population, and more than a majority proportion of the industries of the island. Ulster has been Protestant almost from the time of the Reformation; the other provinces have always been Catholic. The root of the quarrel, so far as Ireland is concerned, lies in that fact. It is a religious question, and has all the bitterness that religion can bring into a political question.

The Irishmen of the south do not deny their loyalty to the mother church, but they say that the fears of the Ulster Protestants are absurd and ridiculous, and point to the excellent relations existing between Catholics and Protestants in the three southern provinces.

For it must be kept clearly in mind that Ulster is not all Protestant and that the three other provinces are not all Catholic. Quite often a Protestant in the south who are bitterly opposed to home rule, but they are in such a minority that they control no parliamentary districts. In Ulster the Nationalist, or Home Rule party, is so considerable in numbers that it now holds seventeen of the thirty-three parliamentary seats to which the province is entitled, or a majority of one. As the population is now distributed, this is somewhat misleading, for the Unionists are in a majority in the province. However, the minority is considerable and largely sectional. The four northeast counties of Ulster are solidly Unionist, and in two others they also have a majority.

Ireland has 103 members of the parliament at Westminster. Eighteen of these are Unionists, sixteen from Ulster and two from the University of Dublin, elected not by residents and citizens, but by graduates and undergraduates of the universities. One of these is Sir Edward Carson, the London lawyer, who is the leader of the Irish Unionist forces, both in parliament and upon the drill grounds, where the Protestant youths are in training for civil war. The other eighty-five Irish members are all Nationalists, although eight of them follow Mr. O'Brien in the Independent Nationalist party, and are not co-operating with the Asquith government in its attempt to put through the home rule bill at this session of parliament.

Before plunging into the crater of this volcano of Irish controversy it may be worth while to set down in black and white what the row is all about.

The home rule bill is a measure to set up in Ireland a parliament and an executive government responsible to that parliament, that is to have legislative, executive and judicial control over all Ireland subject to certain restrictions and reservations contained in the act. It, will leave the Dublin parliament in the same relation to the imperial parliament at Westminster that the Albany legislature and the other state legislatures bear to the congress at Washington; or, more accurately, in the same relation that the provincial parliaments of Ontario and Quebec and Manitoba bear to the Canadian parliament at Ottawa, since the powers of Dublin are delegated by Westminster, and those of Washington delegated from Albany and Harrisburg and Richmond and the rest.

This is the third home rule bill, and it differs in many ways from the Gladstone bills of 1886 and 1893. The first one was defeated in the house of commons, causing a great split in the Liberal party. The second passed the commons, only to be defeated in the house of lords. At that time the verdict of the house of lords was final.

Then came the great quarrel over the budget of 1909, in which the lords violated some centuries of traditions and rejected the money bill. That caused two elections, resulting in two defeats of the lords, and the passing of a bill permitting any measure passed three times by the commons in three successive sessions to become law even if it were rejected by the house of lords. The home rule bill passed this bill because they had to—if they had refused Mr. Asquith would have had the king appoint some six or seven hundred new dukes and viscounts, and the diluted lords would have voted the bill through. The lords preferred the parliament act to such a wholesale dilution. So they passed the bill.

The home rule bill is the first measure attempted to be put through under that act. It was introduced in the house of commons early in 1912, was passed on second reading on May 30 of that year, and in that session on January 14, 1913, by a majority of 110. It went to the house of lords, where it was rejected on January 30 by the trifling majority of 257.

Announcing its purpose of passing the bill despite the lords, the government again brought the bill into the house at the next session of parliament, and finally passed it on July 7, 1913, by 109. The lords very promptly, on July 15, rejected it by a majority of 239. Again, in the session of 1914, it was introduced, and at this writing has already passed the second reading and is ready to be passed the third and last time whenever the government deems it expedient to take the vote.

All this detail is necessary to an understanding of the political situation as it now exists. If this bill can be defeated, said the Unionists after it had passed the first time, then we not only will defeat home rule and save the Union, but we also will defeat the working of the parliament act and save the house of lords. This secondary fact operated not only to bring the English Unionists more strongly to the support of the Ulster Unionists, but it also destroyed whatever indifference there may have been among English Liberals toward the cause of home rule.

M. & M. ASSN. PLANS FOR BIG TRADE CELEBRATION

Will Hold Meeting Tonight to Arrange Details for Two Weeks' Event

Members of the Merchants and Manufacturers' association will gather tonight in the assembly room of the new chamber of commerce building at 6:30 o'clock at a dinner to plan the details of the big meeting of southern retail merchants and trade celebration which will be given under the auspices of the association for two weeks beginning August 2.

The mid-summer merchants' meetings held by the association in the past have attracted here thousands of the most progressive dealers of Dixie for a period of entertainment and of the renewing of old friendships with the wholesalers and manufacturers and the forming of new personal and business acquaintanceships. It is the intention of the association to make the celebration this year far surpass anything of the kind they have heretofore undertaken.

A committee consisting of A. C. McClain, chairman, Gordon Kiser, Meyer Regenstein, J. D. Robinson and W. H. Wyatt held a meeting yesterday and formulated a tentative plan of entertainment for the two weeks of celebration. This committee will make its report tonight and the membership will discuss it and determine upon a definite line of action for making enjoyable every minute of the stay of the visiting retailers.

Colonel Willis E. Ragan, head of the association, will preside and there will be stirring talks by J. K. Orr, Bolling Jones and others.

TOWN-BRED 'POSSUM GUEST AT THE TERRACE

Head Clerk Ben Florence Keeps Animal He Captured in Ansley Park

Jay 'Possum, of Atlanta, is a guest of the Georgian Terrace. He (or she) is enjoying life in a specially prepared cage on the first floor.

The animal, a big one, is a city-bred possum, and formerly lived in Ansley Park.

Ben Florence, head clerk of the hotel, captured Jay while riding through Ansley Park Wednesday night with a bevy of friends in the latter's machine. The animal ran out into the middle of the street, was blinded by the glare of the headlights of the car, fell all over itself and then turned and ran. But Ben Florence ran faster than the 'possum, and the beast was captured.

"I wanted to name the 'possum Jelenda, but I was told he ought to be called Jennie instead, so, without settling the question, I compromised by calling her Jay," said Mr. Florence.

Jay's worst enemy at the hotel at present is the cook, who says he hasn't had a chance to turn out a good baked possum in many days.

Atlanta Woman May Decide $200,000 Court Suit Over Estate of Bowery Hermit

MRS. EPHIE A. WILLIAMS. —Staff Photo by Winn.

Discovery of Lost Will of Dudley Jardine by Mrs. Ephie A. Williams Causes Sensation.

On the word of an Atlanta woman, Mrs. Ephie A. Williams, of 173 Oak street, West End, hangs the final disposition of the $200,000 estate left by the hermit derelict of the Bowery, Dudley Jardine, who for twenty years lived a double life under the name of William Smith on the East Side of New York.

Whether this fortune shall go to the daughter of William Smith or the nephews and nieces of Dudley Jardine, the supreme court of New York state will decide.

And the decision rests largely with Mrs. Ephie A. Williams, for it is believed she is the only person now living who saw and read the will of Dudley Jardine.

The suicide of her uncle, examination of his papers, the reading of the faded document which was the will of Dudley Jardine, its casting aside and later its cremation with many other old papers in the front yard of her West End home, is her story.

When William Smith, the "good pal of all Bowery sports," died amid the filth and squalor of his back room tenement on New York's East Side last year, the startling discovery was made from an examination of his papers that he was in reality Dudley Jardine, scion of an old New York family.

COMRADES AMAZED.

More, East Side comrades of the old man were amazed to learn that this derelict who had skulked among them year in and year out, apparently as miserable and poverty-stricken as the worst of them, was in reality a rich man, the secret owner of stocks and bonds worth thousands of dollars.

At once relatives of Dudley Jardine and relatives of William Smith arose to claim the fortune. It was taken to the courts. Apparently, the old man had left no will, and the fight lay between Mrs. Anita Faithful McCarthy, daughter of William Smith, and Jardine's nieces and nephews in Upper Montclair, N. J., and Elmhurst, L. I., who had never known of their uncle's double life until his death.

Then the New York society world was shocked by a terrible suicide. It was October 5 of last year, in a little upper room of the Grand hotel, Colonel James E. Tate, capitalist, of London, New York and Baltimore, hanged himself to his window frame.

He was famous in the city, a figure on the stock exchange, a traveler of the Seven Seas, the companion of millionaires. New York deplored his death and wondered who would inherit his fortune.

ANOTHER DOUBLE LIFE.

Tate was believed to have left millions. His will gave everything to his niece, Mrs. Ephie A. Williams, of Atlanta. An examination of his effects, however, revealed another double life.

It revealed the fact that Colonel Tate, the comrade of moneyed men, had paid $1 a day for his little attic in the Grand hotel, that he ate most of his meals at dairy lunches that he might shine once a week at the lobster palaces and furthermore that wild speculation on the stock exchange had stripped the colonel of his ample means and gave his niece a few paltry hundreds.

Mrs. Williams went to New York. She examined all her uncle's papers, especially some he had kept in a little black bag. Among the latter was a curious deed signed by one Dudley Jardine.

She knew no Dudley Jardine, but realized that her uncle had met many quaint characters in his nomadic life. This was one, she decided. No matter, she thought, and cast the will aside in the little black bag, after first reading it over carefully.

She came back to Atlanta. The will was tossed into the attic of her West End home with the other papers and not until the latter part of last October did it again come to light.

Then John Harvil, a local contractor, was engaged to remodel Mrs. Williams' home. The papers were taken out of the garrett and piled in the front yard. A negro, with a match to fire the pile, he suddenly stooped and pulled out the old document.

FLAMES CONSUME WILL.

"Here's a deed," he said to Mrs. Williams. "Don't you want it?"

"It's of no account," Mrs. Williams replied. They both glanced at it idly and tossed it into the flames. The last will and testament of Dudley Jardine went up in blue smoke.

But a short while ago Mrs. Williams received a letter from Mrs. McCarthy's New York lawyers. They had heard she had found the will. Would she make an affidavit?

Mrs. Williams replied that she would send today a lawyer to take her from the commission, appointed by Justice Philbin, of the supreme court, to take her testimony and Harvil's.

"Certainly I remember the will," Mrs. Williams told a Journal reporter Thursday. "I don't recall the exact wording of it, or the amount bequeathed, but I do remember that the daughter was first mentioned, the nephews and nieces next and some charitable institutions last."

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

BAPTIST CAMPAIGN WILL COME TO CLOSE SUNDAY

Many Meetings Scheduled Before Ending of Big Evangelistic Revival

The Baptist evangelical campaign in Atlanta will come to a close Sunday with a number of final mass meetings at the various churches. A number of the individual congregations have announced their intention of continuing the meetings at their respective churches for another week, or more, but the general campaign will close Sunday.

Thursday from 9:15 a. m. until 3 o'clock in the afternoon prayer service was held at the First Baptist church, in which several hundred men and women participated, and in which prayer was offered for the success of the few remaining days of the campaign.

The theater meetings at the Bijou have been discontinued until Sunday, when the final mass meeting will be held, a meeting for men only, which will be addressed by Dr. Lincoln McConnell. A meeting at the same time but for women will be held at the First Baptist church, and will be led by Mrs. J. H. Dew, the wife of Evangelist Dew, both of whom have been active in the campaign.

A meeting for the young people of the city will be held Sunday in the Alamo theater, and will be addressed by Dr. J. H. Dew. This is expected to be one of the most interesting meetings of the campaign.

The sermon to be delivered Thursday night by Dr. Dew will be "Man's Question, and God's Answer." The exposition of the subject will show the question asked by the young ruled, "What must I do to be saved," and the answer, "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved."

Beautiful Luncheon at Roan Cliff

"Roan Cliff," the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Alston, was the scene of delightful hospitality Thursday when Mrs. Alston entertained a large number of friends at luncheon. Palms and an array of handsome growing plants transformed the wide verranda into an open-air garden and made the long living room cool and inviting. French baskets filled with fragrant sweet peas from the gardens of the lovely home ornamented mantels and cabinets. Luncheon was served at small tables seating parties of four and six, placed in the dining room, library and sun parlor. In the dining room the central table had for its decoration an artistic arrangement of pale pink roses, garlands of pink sweet peas were used in graceful festoons around the central decoration and extended to the places. White enameled wicker baskets filled with lavender-shaded sweet peas formed the decoration of the other tables, and the minor details continued the Dresden color scheme. Mrs. Alston received her guests wearing an imported gown of crepe embroidered in blue, the graceful skirt was draped from the high waist line and a girdle of turquoise blue satin added a French finish to the charming costume.

Mrs. Charles N. Dannals assisted her sister in receiving and was a dainty figure in taffeta combining pastel shades, and she wore a corsage of pink roses and lilies of the valley.

Venus is in a place that is interpreted as good for most of the occupations of women.

Dressmakers, milliners, all who deal in cooked foods and all who provide for the needs of women, should be successful under this rule of the planets.

It is a fairly good day for actresses, artists and musicians, but they should not put fate to the test. Extreme foresight is counseled for all who belong to the artistic professions, as the outlook is not altogether encouraging. Financial conditions will probably be unsatisfactory.

While Saturn is adverse it is well to postpone any important initiative, as whatever is begun under this sway of the planet is likely to be retarded in its progress. This deterrent influence, however, may prove to be beneficial in certain enterprises.

The aspect of Neptune is interpreted as indicating plots and schemes, which may produce riots, deeds of violence and even loss of life in conflicts between workmen and guardians of the peace. It is prophesied that the next few months will develop critical conditions, which may not be recognized until late in the year.

London astrologers find that the early summer will be most unfavorable for the health of the king of Norway, who will have serious troubles in the autumn.

The queen of Holland is still subject to influences, which are disturbing. Financial difficulties are foreshadowed for the royal family.

There is a warning omen for the mayor of New York. The seers predict that he will meet many enemies and face serious problems during his administration.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the prognostication of anxiety during the year, but, by close attention to business affairs, profit will be assured. Danger of accident is foretold. The augury is good for domestic happiness both for men and women.

Children born on this day probably will be exceedingly fond of travel. Both boys and girls have the possibility of unusual mentality. Their magnetic center is the sun in Gemini and their principal ruling planet, Mercury.

LITTLE STORIES FOR BEDTIME

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Little Joe Otter was in a terrible rage. It was a bad beginning for a beautiful day, and Little Joe knew it. But who wouldn't be in a great rage if his breakfast was taken from him just as he was about to eat it? That is what had happened to Little Joe Otter. Anyway, that is what he told Billy Mink. Perhaps he didn't tell it quite exactly as it was, but you know he was very badly frightened at the time.

"I was sitting on the bank of the Laughing Brook beside one of the little pools," he told Billy Mink, "and was just going to eat a fat trout I had just caught, when who should come along but that great, big bully Buster Bear. He took that fat trout away from me and ate it just as if it belonged to him! I hate him; if I live long enough I'm going to get even with him!"

Of course, that wasn't nice talk and anything but a nice spirit, but Little Joe Otter's temper is sometimes pretty short, especially when he is hungry, and this time he had had no breakfast, you know. The truth is, Buster Bear had stolen up behind Little Joe and frightened him so that he had dropped the fat trout, and Buster had just saved it from falling back into Laughing Brook. Then he had invited Little Joe to come back and get it, and Little Joe had been afraid to and had gone off down the Laughing Brook in a great rage. Buster had eaten the fat trout to keep it from being wasted, so he said.

So, you see, Little Joe's story wasn't quite true. Buster Bear hadn't actually taken the fish away from him. But looking at the matter as Little Joe did, it amounted to the same thing. You see, Buster knew perfectly well when he invited Little Joe to come back and get it that Little Joe wouldn't dare do anything of the kind.

"Where is he now?" asked Billy Mink.

"He's somewhere up the Laughing Brook. I wish he'd fall in and get drowned!" snapped Little Joe.

Billy Mink just had to laugh. The idea of great, big Buster Bear getting drowned in the Laughing Brook was too funny. There wasn't water enough in it anywhere except down in the Smiling Pool, and that was on the Green Meadows, where Buster had never been known to come. "Let's go see what he is doing," said Billy Mink.

At first Little Joe didn't want to, but at last his curiosity got the better of his fear and he agreed. So the two little brown-coated scamps turned back up the Laughing Brook, taking the greatest care to keep out of sight themselves. They had gone only a little way when Billy Mink whispered: "Sh-h-h! There he is." Sure enough, there was Buster Bear sitting close beside a little pool and looking into it very intently.

"What's he doing?" asked Little Joe Otter, as Buster Bear sat for the longest time without moving.

Just then one of Buster's pig paws went into the water as quick as a flash and scooped out a trout that had ventured too near. "He's fishing!" exclaimed Billy Mink. And that is just what Buster Bear was doing, and it was very plain to see that he was having great fun. When he had eaten the trout he had caught he moved along to the next little pool.

"They are our fish!" said Little Joe fiercely. "He has no business catching our fish!"

"I don't see how we are going to stop him," said Billy Mink.

"I do," cried Little Joe, into who's head an idea had just popped. "I'm going to drive all the fish out of the little pools and muddy the water all up. Then we'll see how many fish he will get! Just watch me get even with Buster Bear."

Little Joe slipped swiftly into the water and swam straight to the little pool that Buster Bear would try next. He frightened the fish so that they fled in every direction. Then he stirred up the mud so that the water was so muddy that Buster couldn't have seen a fish right under his nose. He did the same thing in the next pool and the next. Buster Bear's fishing was spoiled for that day.

What Anne Rittenhouse Says

This Is the Day, the Week and the Month for Shirtwaists. You May Call Them by Their French Name, or Designate Them by Using Simple English, But You Need Them Now.

NEW YORK.—It is rather odd that the French woman, who despised the shirtwaist for so many years, should be more loyal to it now than the Americans who invented it. All through the winter in Paris, one saw smart types of women wearing simple white muslin blouses with their best coast suits.

Of course, one must remember that the European woman likes not to wear the coat and skirt for a formal occasion. She gowns herself then in the one-piece frock, half low in the neck and with half transparent bodice, and keeps the coat and skirt for walking in the morning, shopping in the afternoon, and any charitable work she is inclined to do.

She may go into a restaurant for tea in an exceedingly fine coat skirt of thin material, but she considers hours spent in this way in the same light as she regards shopping.

When a woman puts a coat suit in that sartorial niche, she naturally wants a white muslin blouse as an addition. It is the woman who, wearing her coat suit to all manner of day functions, chooses an elaborate self-colored blouse to go with it.

The European woman regards her coat suit in the right light; the American makes it serve too many purposes and often spends too much money on it. She began by using it for outdoor life as a man uses his rough sack suit, but she ends in wearing it for two-thirds of her life.

But when summer comes she finds the dressy self-colored blouse a nuisance, and she yearns for the half dozen wash blouses which the weather demands. What kind will she choose this summer?

Shirtwaists Quite Simple.

Embroidery and lace are left off the shirtwaists for everyday wear. We have adopted the French model which calls for fine material, good laundry, small stitches, and an admirable fit. The buttons may be of pearl or crochet, the pieces are usually put together by hemstitching, and the variety in sleeves is astounding, but the collar is uniform.

The novelty of this season is the use of bright colored muslin and linen blouses with white, tan, yellow, and dark blue suits. All winter we have been familiar with the mustard color muslin blouse, but there have been many women who disapprove of it without knowing why. Probably its color was too vivid and they preferred white.

When summer comes, one rushes into color instinctively and gladly. Everything favors it and one does not feel conspicuous, although it would be a gayer world if women would let nature do the color work in summer, then assist winter by wearing brilliant tones against its sombre background.

The sketch shows a blouse made in one of the popular tones of the day: watermelon pink muslin. It is worn with white linen suits in the country and in the house, and with white serge suits and even with dark blue ones for the city streets, the trains and especially at summer resorts.

The model sketched is rather elaborate, because it goes with a black taffeta suit, but there are many simpler styles for the woman who is loyal to simplicity.

Here there is a shirt bosom edged with a tiny ruffle of black satin, elbow sleeves also finished with the ribbon, and a standing collar outlined in black. The fastening is directly down the front of the shirt bosom and the garment is slipped over the head like a middy blouse.

Crackers Off To Play Barons In Birmingham

Smithmen Meet Moley's Crew in Four Games, and Then Move On to Montgomery for Four More--Return Here Thursday to Play Pelicans

Manager Billy Smith and his band of Crackers left Wednesday night for Birmingham, where they engage the Barons in the first of a four-game series this afternoon. Single games will be played today and Friday, and on Saturday, Memorial day, a double bill will be served up for Baron fans. Following this series they move on Montgomery for four games in as many days. All of the athletes on the local roster, save Catcher Munch, were carried on the trip. Munch will remain in the city, pending the arrival of instructions from Manager Griffith, of the Senators, concerning the disposition of the catcher, since the Crackers will turn him back.

The series of games just finished with the Gulls were rather exceptional contests. The locals registered thirty-nine hits in the three games, while the Gulls totaled thirty-eight. The home boys amassed twenty-eight runs, while the visitors were gathering sixteen. Evidently Smith's men carry something in their attack, and if they continue to slam the ball as they did off Hogg, Robertson and Keeley, they are sure to cause the downfall of a bunch of hurlers before the stretch is reached next fall.

The games with the Gulls leaves local fans wondering just how they managed to snag three in a row from the Crackers during the Mobile series. In Manager Lord, Kirby and Charlie Schmidt, the Birds have a hard-hitting trio. It is doubtful whether another team in the league can offer two as consistently heavy stickers as the first two. Also in Hogg and Robertson they have two good hurlers, and young Gudger is said to be a valuable performer. However, the rest of the cast looks rather mediocre. Calhoun is a clever fielder, but his hitting has been rather negligible. Clayton Perry can hit, but he was never a brilliant fielder. O'Dell and Dobard are only average performers, either in the field or with the ash. Miller, in center, is a clever outfielder, but his hitting is very light. Charlie Schmidt is one of the best catchers in the league.

Such an array does not stack up as being of real class.

Pinch hitters drove in one run for the visitors in the ninth.

More Pitches Three-Hit Game

Of Nashville's eight hits, six were for extra bases, four being triples. Daley made several brilliant catches in left field. After the third inning, but one visiting player reached first, base and that was due to Williams' bad error in the ninth.

Reisigl was wild in the first inning and three bases on balls and a base hit led to a run. In the third a pop fly fell safe for a two-base hit and Lindsay's single scored another. Fluke hits filled the bases for Chattanooga, with none out in the fifth, but only one run resulted.

Barons Trim Memphis Turtles

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 28.—Liebhardt was ineffective Wednesday and his support was not of the best, Birmingham winning the last game of the series, 8 to 2. Four of the six bases on balls allowed by the Memphis pitcher paved the way to tallies. Harbin, pitching for Birmingham, was master of the situation at all stages.

ST. LOUIS, May 28.—Huggins' error Wednesday in the second inning paved the way for five Boston runs, and these, with one before in the same inning and another in the third, gave the visitors a lead St. Louis could not overcome. The score was 7 to 4. Maranville was responsible for four Boston runs in the second inning. With the base filled he hit to left field fence for a home run.

Mathewson Hurls Giants to Victory

CHICAGO, May 28.—New York defeated Chicago 3 to 1 in the final game of the series here Wednesday. The contest was a pitcher's duel between the veteran Mathewson and Zabel, Chicago's youthful twirler who got his first chance to start a game. Mathewson had perfect support. Zabel retired in the eighth inning to allow a pinch hitter to bat for him. A double play by Doyle, Grant and Merkle, in the fourth inning, and Mathewson's remarkable control in all pinches were the features of the game.

Reds Cop Game From Billies

CINCINNATI, May 28.—Cincinnati made it two out of three from Philadelphia Wednesday by winning, 8 to 6. The contest was a hard-fought affair. Marshall lasted two innings. Chalmers was taken out to permit a pinch hitter to bat for him. Ames managed to last until the eighth when a base on balls and three singles was enough to have Manager Herzog substitute Benton. Benton also was hit freely, but the rally of the visitors came too late. Groh's batting was sensational.

Polo Team Plays Today

HEMPSTEAD, N. Y., May 28.—Polo among the candidates for the international team was called off because of rain Wednesday. The cup defenders will line up today with Lawrence Waterbury, J. M. Waterbury, Jr., captain; Kene Lemèntagne and Devereux Hillburne. The opposing four will probably be C. C. Rumsey, Foxhall P. Keene, Malcolm Stevenson and Henry C. Phipps.

WRECK OF BOSTON BRAVES, PICKED TO WIN RAG, MYSTERY OF PRESENT SEASON

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON.

One of the things that upsets all the dope, spills the beans and makes one wonder if ever he knew anything about baseball is the showing of the Boston Braves this year.

What the matter is, not one of the team can tell. They cannot understand what is happening to them, and they are dragging along in the sub-basement, trying to figure out some way of smashing the sequence of defeats.

Last season Boston was the sensational club of the National league. This year, with a much improved team, playing much improved baseball, in a league suffering from general debility, Boston is a miserable eighth place club, struggling along and wondering what has struck it.

The team went into the season in fine shape, and Brooklyn, which was not in good condition, man-handled it. Then bad weather, many postponements and some hard luck defeats came along.

The pitchers, all young and mostly inexperienced, blew. Further, whenever one of them pitched a good game the other fellow pitched better. They got the worst of the "luck of the draw" on pitching, although Stallings is esteemed as a remarkable manager in matching pitcher against pitcher.

We all figured the Evers-Maranville combination around second base would make the team much stronger. Maranville has been the two-year sensation of the National league. He has been at all times hampered by Sweeney's weakness at second and by weak third basemen.

This year Evers was supposed to be the man who would make Maranville greater than ever. Then Maranville "blew." On three occasions he has made four in errors in a game and at no time has been playing the ball he did last year.

Journal Trims Postoffice, 6-1

With Osborne on the mound, The Journal had an easy time defeating the Postoffice club, 6-1, Wednesday afternoon. While he was touched up for seven hits, he was strong in the pinches, striking out fifteen men. Sasnett was in the box for the Postoffice and held The Journal boys to three safeties. However, his control was bad, walking six batters and hitting two.

Griffin, of the Postoffice team, scored the only run made by his team when he hit a drive to center field that went for a home run when Manassee misjudged it.

Hull secured two of the hits made by The Journal team.

PICKING THE GULLS

By Innis Brown

The Crackers and Gulls fought the last act of their three-cornered engagement at Ponce de Leon Wednesday afternoon, and when the smoke of battle had cleared the horizon, the re- turns showed that B. Smith & Co. had triumphed over B. Lord & Co. for the second time in three days. The records showed ten counters for the native sons, while the aliens were assembling a collection of two.

The game was in one respect, at least, a fair match for the preceding contests, in that lots of things of interest happened. Inasmuch as the Crackers got away with the thick end of the count, it was a most successful affair in every detail. Furthermore it revealed additional clouting ability on part of the local athletes, and at the same time it served to show that Manager Briscoe Lord hangs but slightly on ceremony once he lams the situation, and decides on the proper thing to do to meet said situation.

In fact nobody could argue with a reasonable degree of assurance, that Lord ever dwelt strongly on the admonition of the great Davy Crockett. As you doubtless recall, among things notable, other than dying with his boots on in the battle of the Alamo, Crockett earnestly advised that first you "be sure you are right, and then go ahead," thereby paraphrasing another curt bit of advice that preced him by several decades, to "look before you leap." This has nothing to do with the ball game, of course, but is mentioned to show just how widely men may differ in their methods.

It all devolves from the selection of one Townsend, a young southpaw, that Lord picked up in Mobile, to hurl this third and parting contest with the Crackers. Townsend got all that was coming to him before the game in the way of warming up, but his chance, once the battle was joined, did not dissipatedly shorten than the brief service of Patrick in the army. With a thin lead of one run to steer him by, Lord did send faced the job of curbing the Crackers boldly in the first inning. He managed to get the first heave over the fall course to big Charlie Schmidt, but the second was met and returned back by McConnell's bludgeon, and there was a smack of vengeance in Amby's swing. That old ball shot on a line to right center, and when Kirby raced over to field it, it took a hop and cleared his fingers with lots to spare. Welchonce in center made a show of backing up, but never got far enough over, and the ball rolled clear to the scoreboard in center. Working under a full head of steam, Mac chased around the bags un- trammeled, and registered the tying run.

May be Lord, stationed away over in left field, noted the touch that was behind this drive, and then again may be he got a hunch that as much and more was still to come. At any rate, he waggled Townsend to the coop and summoned forth another youngster, Keeley by name. In other words Townsend was served just two balls before he was banished. Now if there is another case on record where a hurler was ever yanked more promptly, we should be interested in hearing of it. Getting back to the saying attributed to Colonel Crockett, Briscoe certainly did "go ahead." Whether he was sure he was right, is a question open to argument, and had best be referred to the box score in the cases of those who did not see the game.

As for the game itself, after that first frame, when McConnell negotiated his personally conducted tour of the bags, tying the count, the Crackers had little difficulty in making their arguments stick. This was partially due to a bit of mouldy support accorded young Keeley, but largely chargeable to the inability of said Keeley to fool the Crackers at the bat. In the second frame, Flanagan singled and was shoved along on Jennings' sacrifice. Eibel walked and Joe Dunn smote a sizzling drive to center. Elmer Miller set for the ball and then let it scoot between his pins and it rolled on into the ditch flanking the outfield. Despite the fact that Joe is constructed for cargo rather than for speed, he hiked all the way round the cushions pushing Flanagan and Eibel home ahead of him.

From then on it was a practice gallop for the Crackers, with the whole push tugging at the hits to go. In the third, two were registered on a combination, featured by a long triple down the left field base line delivered by Flanagan. Another triple in the fourth figured chiefly in another run, Kircher wielding the ash this time.

Others were added in the fifth and seventh, while the Crackers did not take their half of the ninth. Hence they performed the stunt of scoring every inning save two.

There were several pleasing features from a local standpoint. Elliott Dent's hurling was entirely satisfactory. The Gulls got a lead him for two innings, but they were almost as widely isolated as milestones along a highway. Then, too, the fielding of Ambrose McConnell was a decidedly delightful performance. He handled a round dozen chances, including four putouts and twice at many assists, and never once did he fail ter. Whereas Tuesday nearly everything was fired at Jennings, Wednesday's conflict turned the tables a bit, and Amby had more than his shoved on Mac. His work on several of these was brilliant.

Len Dobard, for the Gulls, also had a busy afternoon. Lennie hooked up seven grounders and passed them to others in faultless style. He also registered two putouts, giving him a total of nine chances, cleanly handled. Also he smashed out two of the hits secured off Dent. He was rather optimistic first that he and O'Dell, ex-Crackers, bagged the two runs scored, while the latter scored the only two runs between the Birds and a blank.

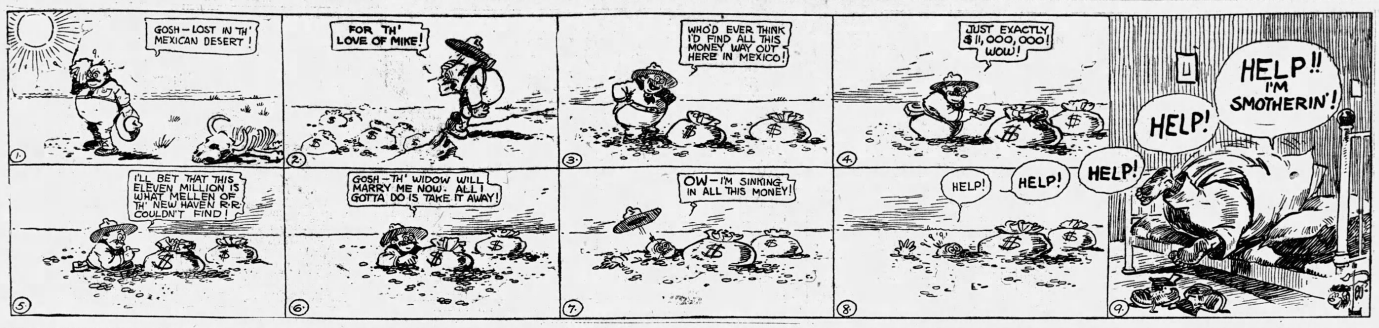
Local Tennis Stars in Important Doubles Match at New Orleans Today

LITTLE PAL---AFTERWARDS HE UNDERSTOOD

--BY LEO



THE SPORTLIGHT

BY GRANTLAND RICE

SCOTIA'S REBUTTAL.

(The British amateur golf championship was won by J. L. C. Jenkins, of Troon, Scotland.—Cable.)

Aye there, MacPherson, it's just as it should be;
It's just as we knew in our hearts that it would be;
It's just what we've watted and watched for long years
As we stood to one side with our bottled-up cheers;
But the Hiltons and Ouimets and Travers and Balls
Are driven at last from the championship stalls
As the May winds are lifting one toast in a croon—
"To the health of our own Lawrie Jenkins, of Troon."

Aye there, MacPherson, go round up the block—
Go fetch us in Jamie and Sandy and Jock,
For the thistle at last tops the shamrock and rose
And the proud eagle flutters and flops with the crows;
The game has come back to the land of its birth,
To the mother that nursed it and gave it its worth;
And we'll join in the chorus of May winds that croon—
"To the health of our own Lawrie Jenkins, of Troon."

We knew it, MacPherson—it came to our ken
That Scotia was the race that first walloped the pill
And baffled, hooked and stymied from valley to hill?
And who was the race that first swung from the tee
And planted a mashie shot dead for a "three?"
So we'll drink in the dream glow of St. Andrew's moon
"To the health of our own Lawrie Jenkins, of Troon."

"All the Athletics have," states a rival manager, "is batting strength." And all John D. Rockefeller has, as Ring Lardner quoted Kid Gleason, is $100,000,000.

For that matter, all Shakespeare had was ability to write; and all Caruso has is a voice. But them scem to get by with it.

Which reminds us of the oft-heard statement that if Hans Wagner or Walter Johnson or Frank Baker couldn't play ball they would be lucky to get $20 a week. How much would Caruso be drawing if he couldn't warble a bit? How far would Shakespeare have gotten if he hadn't been able to dabble a trifle in literature? Or how much would John D. Rockefeller haveput by if he hadn't been a business man at heart and had been forced to bat against Walter Johnson for a living?

Joe Jackson can't write and Arnold Bennet can't bat .400, but that doesn't argue that in their own respective industries they are not worth while. Shifting an old refrain, "It isn't what you might have been—it's what you're putting over now."

There's Buck Herzog, for example. He is merely manager of the Reds. But a man who can lift the Reds into third place, even for a few weeks, could probably build a canal, write "Paradise Lost" or induce Colonel Huerta to resign of his own free will and fancy. He might even reduce the high cost of living.

THE MYSTERY OF SPORT.

The mystery of sport—of shifting form and stunning upheavals—will never be settled. The victory of Ouimet last fall, the early defeat of Travers in a match where his opponent required an 88, are things not to be explained.

And joined with these is the present showing of the Boston Braves. Here is a ball club that George Stallings, with fine work, built up and improved, and finally lifted from last to fifth place. Then in the course of operations he strengthened and bulwarked his fifth place machine and packed on power in every department. In addition to this he had a softer field ahead, with several clubs weakened by the loss of stars. Here was a club that by every law of the game should have continued its advance and moved along into the first division. But in place of this upward tendency, as the season opened it suddenly cracked and collapsed and dropped back like a steel girder thrown off a skyscraper.

What's the answer? Stallings is still a fine manager. His talent is improved. His people are fighting and hustling; he has added a brainy fielder in Evers—and yet here he is on the edge of young June jammed back into the cellar as tightly as the worst Boston club in history ever was. There may be some rebuttal to this weird mystery, but if there is a far keener brain than ours must shoot in the reply. We haven't even the essence of an inkling—not to say the scintilla of an idea in reply.

J. L.—When we mentioned the fact that no ball club had even won four pennants in a row we specifically stated "Under the so-called modern game, within the last twenty-five years of play." The old Brown status was some weeks back of this mark.

WHAT HE'D LIKE TO BE.

Slipping back like Walter Johnson—
Fading out like the Athletics—
A joke like the Reds—
An erratic golfer like Chick Evans.

Mr. Wilson's desire to give Mexico an ideal government—a government of fair play—is to be commended in some respects. But in the meanwhile, among others, there are the United States of America that could use such a government and not complain. Maybe America would like to civilize Mexico as she civilized the Indian—by killing most of them and corrupting most of the rest.

Or perhaps he would like Mexico to have an ideal government such as Colorado has.

If American golfers fall down in France as they did in England we suggest that they invade Russia where every home golfer is stymied by by his whiskers from the first tee. This might bring up quite a golfing point, however. If you sliced a ball into your opponent's whiskers and he made a demurrer at the use of a niblick, just what would cover the case?

Federal League Player Assaults Umpire

BALTIMORE, Md., May 28.—A windstorm caused a suspension of Wednesday's game between the Baltimore and St. Louis Federals while Baltimore was at bat in the sixth inning. After waiting twenty minutes Umpires Mannassau called the game with the score 4 to 3 in Baltimore's favor.

St. Louis players protested that it had become light enough to play and during the argument Rightfielder Kommers kicked Mannassau in the side. The umpire did not retaliate and Kommers was hurried out of the grounds by his teammates.

Mannassau tonight telegraphed President Gilmore of the incident. Manager Brown of St. Louis announced his intention of protesting the game.

Ramspeck and Orr Play Grimm and Borneman, of New Orleans—Rain Stopped Play Wednesday, With Locals Leading

NEW ORLEANS, May 28.—Irving Wright, of Boston, and three local players were slated to meet in the semi-finals in men's singles here today in the Southern championship tennis tournament being played at the courts of the New Orleans Tennis club. The Bostonian was still opposed for the singles title by B. S. Waters, E. Phelps and the winner of the postponed match between R. B. Logan and C. B. Maginnis.

Playing brilliant tennis at all times and with but one lost set marked against a perfect score, Wright is conceded to be the strongest contender for the title and indications were that Phelps would be the surviving player to meet him in the finals Friday. Fifty-two players in men's singles were posted at the opening of the tournament Tuesday.

Although intermittent showers Wednesday caused some delay prospects are bright for reaching the semi-finals in men's doubles this afternoon. The feature event on today's doubles calendar was the match between Wright, of Boston, and Adoue, of Dallas, opposing Phelps and Maginnis, New Orleans. Another match attracting attention was between Ramspeck and Orr, of Atlanta, and Grimm and Borneman, of New Orleans. Four sets in the match were completed yesterday when darkness interfered with the Georgians in the lead with two sets won and one tied.

Contestants in ladies' singles were notified to be on the courts early today as it was hoped to complete the remaining rounds and reach the semi-finals by late afternoon.

Miss Irving Murphy, New Orleans, holder of the 1913 singles trophy, successfully defended her title in the first round but will probably encounter stronger competition before the finals are reached.

Playing for mixed doubles Wednesday resulted as follows:

Miss E. Legendre and A. Waters; Miss I. Farihy and M. R. Logan; Miss E. Clarke and W. B. Grant; Miss S. Norman and Henry Waters; William Henderson and P. Fortner; Miss A. George and Henry Stouse; Miss Alexander and W. Alexander; Mrs. J. R. Monroes and H. H. Sanders.

A DIP INTO THE PAST.

August 5, 1890—George H. Hosmer beat J. A. Ten Eyck in sculling match at 3 miles in 19 minutes 32 1-2 seconds. Championship of New England.

Pitcher Eddie Stack, of the Chicago Cubs, should have lots of smoke.

Frank Cares, of Detroit, has a trotter named Creme de Menthe. It sure will take a mighty fast pony to liquor.

Correct designing of men's clothes has been brought almost to a science. Expert designers, such as we employ, do much more than make clothes that fit the body; they fit a man's occupation and attitude, and age.

It is really an art, and we employ men who are artists in it.

Jones, of Memphis, runner up in 1913, won her match in the elimination round of the woman's southern golf tournament here Wednesday, defeating Miss Bland Tomlinson, Birmingham, 3 up and 2 to play. Woodward, Knoxville, 6 up and 4 to play. Mrs. K. G. Duffield, Memphis, defeated Mrs. Thompson Frazer, Asheville, 4 up and 3 to play.

Mike Saul Says Perry Will Beat Hanlon Tuesday

Local Boxer, After Working Out With the Pittsburger, Thinks He Will Lay It Over His Opponents—Perry Will Be More Careful

"Jimmy Perry will surely beat Eddie Hanlon when they clash at the Orpheum theater Tuesday night," chirped Mike Saul, local referee and a good judge of fighters, after boxing three hard rounds with Jimmy Perry at the Business Men's gymnasium yesterday afternoon.

"Jimmy simply took Eddie for a set up the last time they met," continued Mike. It will be a different story next time and my money goes on Jim. After watching Eddie stop Perry last week I really thought the local boy could turn the same trick every night in the week. Jimmy fought like a rank fourth rater that night and I honestly thought after the scrap that I could beat the Pittsburger myself.

"However, after watching Perry box, besides donning the mitts with him for three rounds, I am confident that Perry simply underrated Eddie. Jimmy looked as fast as he was in his palmiest days in his workout yesterday and how that bird can hit! Eddie will be a wonder if he can take Jimmy's wallop on the jaw and still stay on his feet.

"I fought Eddie when I was at my best and if fans remember right I beat him. He lost to me on a foul in five rounds, just because I blocked that right hand punch for three rounds, and after that, well, Eddie's punch was gone and I simply mauled him all over the ring.

"Mind you, I am not underrating Eddie. He is a good boy and will give the best of them a battle. But he is being rushed along too fast. Jimmy is a veteran and he will realize the mistake he made. He won't duck his head next Tuesday night, and he won't laugh when Eddie first clips him on the chin. Jimmy will be watching Eddie's right and he will be moving around the local boy all the time.

"However, I think the scrap will be one of the greatest ever staged in Atlanta. Eddie will fight harder than ever and it will take several stiff punches on the jaw to slow him. Once you give a youngster confidence he is the hardest fellow in the world to beat. Eddie is sure he can stop Jimmy, and Perry will have to be at his best to win.

Tech High Wins Dual Track Meet

The Tech High track team easily defeated the Boys' High team in a dual meet held at Grant field Wednesday afternoon. Tech High piled up a total of 71 points while the Boys' High was scoring 28.

Arthur Meyers, of Tech High, won the medal offered for the individual scoring the largest number of points with 22 to his credit. Sid Johnson, of Boys' High finished second with 14 points.

Harland, representing Tech High, broke the prep record for the running high jump, when he cleared the bar at 5 feet 4 inches.

Ouimet Plays Topping Today

Americans Play Final Round for French Amateur Golf Championship

VERSAILLES, France, May 28.—Francis Ouimet, the America open champion, and Henry J. Topping, Greenwich Country club, Connecticut, will meet in the final round today for the French amateur championship. Both showed excellent form over the course yesterday, Ouimet defeating Apperley, the Australian player, and Topping eliminating the American amateur champion, Jerome D. Travers. In the previous round Ouimet disposed of Lord Charles Hope, holder of the title.

The Englishman was unlucky with some of his putts against Ouimet, but played most of them with a view to baying the American stymie if the ball did not find the hole. This occurred on the first hole, and the American knocked Hope's ball in.

Travers was weak in his play against his American opponent. Topping made few mistakes. His approaching was perfect and he led nearly all the way.

Rival Teams Play Friday

The Boys' high and Tech high baseball teams clash Friday in the first game of the postseason series. Smith and Hooper will form the battery for Tech high and Friddell and Weaver for Boys' high. The contest will start at 3:30 o'clock and a small admission will be charged.

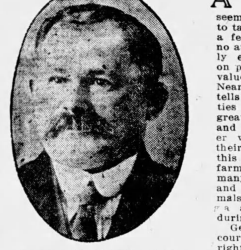
POULTRY, PIGEONS AND LIVE STOCK

How the South Could Soon Add Millions From Her Live Stock Industry



AS OUR people are thoroughly aroused over the cattle industry of the south it seems possible now to get them to take up this line of work when a few years ago they would pay no attention whatever to it. Nearly everything has to be forced on people before they can see the value to be derived from it. Nearly every paper we pick up tells us of the great opportunities we have in the south, the great scarcity of meat products and how the world sooner or later will have to look to us for their meat supply. With all of this agitation it has put many farmers to thinking and a great many have at last taken action and hundreds of good beef animals have been brought to Georgia and other southern statees during the past year.

Getting rid of the ticks of course is the first step in the right direction. This is being done in nearly all parts of the state, and it is so easy to do that the average farmer who is at all interested does not wait but goes ahead and gets rid of the ticks on his own premises without any help to do so by the government. A dipping vat can be erected at a cost of not over $50, capable of dipping not less than 500 head of cattle per day. And, in any community of 1,000 cattle it certainly is what section to get rid of ticks in a few weeks, even though the cattle are allowed to remain on the same premises. By constant dipping once a week in the arsenate solution (instructions are furnished by the United States government how to make) the ticks on the cattle and ticks left in the pasture after dropping from the cattle usually die. The premises during this season of the year can be thoroughly cleansed in a few weeks if certain instructions are followed. This is the first step in cattle raising in the south.

The next thing to do is to cross our native cattle on to the very best thoroughbred bulls of the beef breeds, such as Shorthorns, Herefords, Red Angus, Holsteins and other breeds of cattle. The first cross will make a big improvement and as a good beef bull can be bought for $150 to $300 any community can afford to club together and own such an animal. From one bull 100 calves can easily be produced in one season. He will not only add from 25 to 50 pounds of flesh to each of his offsprings but will nearly double the quality at the same time. Therefore, making a bull of this kind worth from $1,000 to $5,000 per year in any community where from fifty to 100 calves are produced from him.

Our native cattle usually all being fairly good milkers, the mother cow will produce a splendid calf if she is allowed to let the calf have all of the milk for at least three months. It is best that this be done if it is sure to make her a valuable animal when grown, one with size and quality. Our people are fast learning that a calf must have plenty milk during the first part of its life if it gets started right. Usually our native cows produce a better steer than a thoroughbred cow will produce, because most of our natives give more milk than the average thoroughbred beef cow will give. Many people do not know it, but all of the very best type of beef animals and especially the prize winners not only have the milk from their mother, but usually from two or three other cows. Holsteins are used largely for this purpose, nurse cows as they are heavy milkers, and will make a good beef animal.

The next step is to never allow a calf to stop growing. It is far better to force it from the time it is a calf until an eighteen-months or two-year-old steer and sell it for $150 to $200 as a tireless beef animal rather than to have it stunted and at two years old only be ready to bring $50. Our people must learn that a good steer that will sell for 10c per pound gross has to be forced and kept growing if they bring the top of the market.

The next step will be to get another cross of good thoroughbred blood on to the half breeds and in a three-fourths to a seven-eighths beef breed animal will we then get a frame, constitution and quality in their animals that will make 1,000 to 1,500 pound steers at two to three years old, and bring 10c per pound gross easily.

But steers of this kind must have another thing provided for them. That is plenty of feed fed with a liberal hand at all times, and not be fixed for range conditions of never feed and then never to feed on it. If you want a tough piece of beef you can certainly find it by butchering an animal that has had to range over an unlimited territory to get enough grass to support it. Such cattle can never be had that this way but good pastures must be provided with an abundance of grass and never allow more cattle in these pastures than they will support. It is far better to divide large pastures into small ones and allow the cattle to run in a few acres, rather than in a whole or ten days at a time than it is to attempt let them have one big pasture. The grass will make nearly twice as much and will do the cattle a lot more feed, and they will grow much faster as the feed they eat will not go off to waste energy by taking too much exercise.

With our wonderful bermuda grass, substituted with white clover, alfalfa hay and alfalfa in pasture during the winter, we can provide food for thousands of head of cattle in the state of Georgia on a single land. But it will take lots of work to get these good grass pastures once sodded and taken care of after they are once fixed.

Yours very truly,

Ginger Blossom

"IT'S UP TO YOU"

There is a world of meaning in this popular expression "It's up to you." Remember, success, happiness and fortune is not going to be thrust upon you. It's up to you—success is a matter of thought. Who are the real estate calamity howlers? It's the poor man that bought a $4,000 or $5,000 home and was forced to give it up. He did not think what the last note would be. I will tell you precisely what your note will average. If you buy from me I will sell you a home that you can pay for. Out of a hundred homes that I have sold at Lakewood Heights only two had to give them up. I will give you a square deal. Ask anybody at Lakewood Heights. It's more pleasant to deal with the owner direct. Sold another bungalow yesterday, another ready now, five rooms, beam ceilings, cement porches, lot 50x175. If you can pay $200 cash will make you notes $15 per month, 6-1-2 and 7 per cent interest. See me at once. P. B. Hopkins, 316 Empire Bldg., Ivy 5111. P. S. My system you will have a deed in five years.

MUST BE SOLD!

LOOK at No. 28 Fairfax street and make your best cash offer. This must be sold. Splendid renting negro property. Always rented for $168 a year.

Business Depression Psychological, Not Real, Says President

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 28.—"Nothing is more dangerous for business than uncertainty," President Wilson told officers of the National Implement and Vehicle association and officers of Manufacturers' associations of Ohio and Illinois, after they had called upon him today and asked that all legislation affecting the business world, except the trade commission bill, be withheld until a trade commission could look into the situation and make a report to congress on which laws satisfactory to manufacturers and employes could be enacted.

President Wilson's views were given in the form of a statement from the White House following the manufacturers' visit. The present policy of the Democratic party, the president said, "is necessary to satisfy the conscience of the country and its perception of the prevailing conditions of business."

Continuing, the statement said:

"The president also said that, while he was aware of the present depression of business, there was abundant evidence that it was merely psychological, that there is no material condition or substantial reason why the business of the country should not be in the most prosperous and expanding condition. He urged upon his visitors the necessity of patriotic cooperation on the part of business men of the country in order to support rather than to oppose the moderate proceeding now on hand to help guide them by their own intimate knowledge of business conditions and processes."

RESULTS of COLDS

To Neglect a Cold in the Beginning is to Run a Pretty Big Risk.

When the Liver Gets Lazy the Blood Thickens and the System Becomes Easily Susceptible to Cold and Disease.

A cold is directly traceable to an inactive liver. The liver fails to perform its duties when overcome and food remains in the stomach or bowels. The head gets hot, the feet cold and the bowels constipated. Right then and there is the danger point. The bowels must be kept open. The system must be relieved of congestion.

JACOBS' LIVER SALT is the greatest known relief. It is better than calomel. It will rejuvenate the liver, send the blood racing through the veins, relieve the congestion and make you feel as if life is worth living.

JACOBS' LIVER SALT acts quickly and mildly and never gripes or nauseates. Don't let inferior salts substitute. Some stores may offer other preparations upon which they make larger profits, often similar in name, but very different in action. JACOBS' LIVER SALT is 25c for a large jar at druggists, or sent by mail (postpaid). Jacobs' Pharmacy.—(Advt.)

PLAN SALARY BASIS FOR ALL SOLICITORS GENERAL

Effort Will Be Made to Pass Bill in Coming Session of Legislature

That a concerted effort will be made at the coming session of the legislature to pass a bill placing the solicitor generals of the state on a salary basis, even at the sacrifice of blocking all other legislation, is the statement made Thursday morning by Representative E. H. McMichael, of Marion, speaker pro tem. of the house.

This bill, which was held up at the last session of the general assembly, has as its object the abolition of the old fee sytem and the adoption in lieu thereof of a set salary on a sliding scale of from $3,000 to $5,000 per annum.

"In 1902, when I first introduced a similar bill," said Mr. McMichael, "it was looked upon in the nature of a joke, but since that time sentiment has changed and, though such legislation has gotten to be a landmark in the legislative chambers, we are going to put it through at the next session. Each year the opposition to the measure has fallen off, and opponents are beginning to view the matter in the right light.

"It is our intention to have a majority of the members of the house to petition the rules committee to make the bill a special order and push it through during the first days of the session. The advocates of the measure are strong enough now to effectively block all other legislation until the bill is passed, and it is our intention to do this if it becomes necessary.

"The salary system has been adopted in other states and proved entirely satisfactory. The argument used in defense of the present fee system that competent lawyers will not stand for election on a salary basis will not hold water. Some of the smartest men in the state are on the bench and they are receiving no more than it is intended the solicitors shall receive. Of course we expect a fight, but we are already fortified against any opposition and are going to put that bill through."

Mr. McMichael, who is also the author of that part of the new automobile tax law directing the apportionment of the funds accruing from the sale of licenses by rural mileage, stated that the defect would be remedied at once. His idea is to have all country roads measured and the moneys apportioned according to these figures.

Convicts Treated to Ice Water With Watermelon Coming

The organization of Fourth and Eighth ward citizens formed Tuesday night for the purpose of insisting that the board of county commissioners complete the extension of Butler street and Highland avenue sewers without delay, is furnishing ice water to the convicts, guards and foreman on the job, by way of showing its appreciation of the increase in the convict force from twenty-five to seventy-five which the county board ordered as the result of the Tuesday night meeting.

Dave Yarbrough, a member of the committee appointed to keep the organization posted on the progress of the work, went by Wednesday afternoon and found the men drinking water out of city hydrants. In this hot weather, and working in sewage-soaked mud, ice water is about as little as the men should have, thought Mr. Yarbrough, and immediately he proceeded to a nearby residence and made arrangements for 100 pounds of ice to be installed in the household refrigerator until a special ice box could be built for the convict force.

Next Sunday the convicts will have something out of the ordinary in the way of food, purchased by the citizens' organization and sent to them. When watermelons get ripe the citizens will undertake to furnish a "watermelon" per day to each convict, provided the convict physician approves of the diet.

Baby of Future is Considered

Much thought has been given in late years to the subject of maternity. In the cities there are maternity hospitals equipped with modern methods. But most women prefer their own homes and in the towns and villages must prefer them. And since this is true we know from the great many splendid letters written on the subject that our "Mother's Friend" is a help to expectant mothers. They write of the wonderful relief, how it seemed to allow the muscles to expand without undue strain and what a splendid influence it was on the nervous system. Such helps as "Mother's Friend" and the broader knowledge of them should have a helpful influence upon babies of the future.

In a little book for such women these points are more thoroughly brought out and a copy will be mailed to anyone who will send us their name and address.

"Mother's Friend" is sold in all drug stores and highly recommended for its timely usefulness, its safeness and the real help it affords. Ask for it at the store and write us for the book. Bradfield Regulator Co., 311 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

CASE OF GIRLS WORKING IN MOVIES TO BE FOUGHT

Proprietor of Theater Who Was Fined Takes Case to Supreme Court

The supreme court will be called upon to pass on the constitutionality of the city ordinance prohibiting the employment of girls under sixteen years of age in a motion picture theater by the suit of W. T. Murray, proprietor of the Alamo No. 2, against the city.

Mr. Murray, who is represented by Attorneys Moore & Branch, was fined $25 and costs in the recorder's court for the employment of two girls named Lynch in his theate. The two girls appeared in the same act with their father and mother, but the recorder's court held that the law had been technically violated.

The case was certiorared from the recorder's court, but Judge John T. Pendleton, of the superior court, sustained the lower court. Now the attorneys are going to appeal on the ground that the law is not constitutional.

DETROIT UNION STATION IS SWEPT BY FLAMES

More Than Fifty Firemen Overcome by Smoke From $30,000 Blaze

DETROIT, May 28.—More than fifty firemen were overcome by smoke and ten partly conscious foreigners were dragged to safety from the flames which swept the basement of the Union station here last night and early today.

The fire was one of the most stubborn in the history of Detroit. Its cause has not been determined, but it started in a room in the basement where records were kept. The loss is estimated at $20,000. The firemen confined the flames to the basement.

Quitman Pulling for Another Convention On Animal Industry

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

QUITMAN, Ga., May 28.—"Another big animal industry show in 1915!" is the slogan that resounds throughout south Georgia today. Thousands of enthusiastic hog and cattle rafsers that attended the first animal industry show, held here Monday, under the auspices of the Georgia chamber of commerce and the Brooks County Industrial club are shouting it aloud.

For the signal success of the monster show that has just been concluded and the undoubted benefit south Georgia will derive from it, has determined the leading citizens of Quitman and other Georgia towns that the animal industry show must be a permanent thing.

Already preparations are under way to assure one in 1915. Quitman folk are talking nothing but hog and cattle, planning to put into practice some of the things they learned at the recent show and enthusiastically boosting the 1915 gathering.

The fact is, Brooks hasn't had enough. The three-mile parade, the wonderful exhibits, the brilliant showing of her native whetted the appetite of Brooks county and today her citizens stand ready to pledge success to the 1915 show if Brooks gets it.

T. M. Massey, president of the Farmers' Industrial club of Barwick, expressed the spirit of the gathering when he said: "This is just the thing we have been needing all the time. Everybody admits that we ought to raise more hogs and cattle and breed more horses, but our people have been slow to begin. Such a gathering of ideas is bound to result in more pork production and to give the animal industry a sendoff as nothing else can do."

WASHINGTON, May 28.—Under the five-minute rule debate on the Clayton omnibus anti-trust bill was to be resumed in the house today with a compromise already effected between the labor leaders and administration leaders on the labor provision of the bill, it was the confident hope of those in charge that the measure would be passed either Friday or early next week.
